PUBLIC ART

Programming at the Lakewood Public Library is strong and our audience continues to grow with more and better programs. Indeed, the Library is the community’s front porch and living room.

I thank all of those who make the programs so successful, including the Library’s creative and hard-working staff.

As Ohio’s public libraries continue to navigate through turbulent times, the continued success of the Lakewood Public Library is attributable to the loyalty and dedication of the Library’s employees. To each one of them I say, thank you.

The Lakewood Public Library belongs to the residents of the City of Lakewood, and we are here to serve you and your family. I welcome your comments about the Library and the services it offers, as well as your suggestions of possible future programs.

Being responsive to you and your family’s needs and interests, and being responsible and accountable public servants are our goals.

As always, we look forward to seeing you at your Library.

SEPTEMBER 11  Journey to Days Gone by...
The Swinging Bavarians are not your typical oompah band. Although they live life like it’s Oktoberfest all year round, these brass bruisers like to mix the unexpected in with the usual marches, polkas, waltzes and ländlers. Think Roy Orbison in lederhosen.

SEPTEMBER 18  Jim Gill & Cathy Miller
The singing storyteller is back and this time he’s brought a friend. Cathy Miller adds a Celtic fiddle and bluegrass roots to Jim Gill’s mix of personal songs. Sometimes they’re sad and sometimes they’re funny. This new duo finds a harmony that will leave you humming.

SEPTEMBER 25  Vibrant Wind Dancers: Autumn Air
Every dance is different. The Vibrant Wind Dancers bring a Middle Eastern style to Celtic, Spanish, folk and pop music as they float across the stage with long, hand-dyed silk veils and scarves. This wind will take your breath away.

OCTOBER 2  Crossen Combat Chronicles
Author Richard “Chip” Heyl presents a unique animated lecture chronicling one brave Lakewoodite’s journey through the Second World War. Follow John R. Crossen and the 135th Field Artillery Battalion through the tricky terrain of the New Georgian, Bouganville and Luzon campaigns in stunning detail.

OCTOBER 9  The Dave Sterner Quintet
The namesake of this quintet is a saxophonist, composer and educator who has chosen to spend his career making funk, jazz and blues music in the Midwest. Expect no agendas. Despite his credentials, Sterner believes that a jazz concert, first and foremost, should be a sizzling good time!

OCTOBER 16  Robin Stone
Straight out of SheLovesYou Records, this skinny female delivers the energy of Dave Mathews with the polish of Natalie Cole and the pulse of Erykah Badu. But don’t let the name checks fool you. The music is wholly original and all her own.

OCTOBER 23  An Edgar Allen Poe Spooktacular
From The Conqueror Worm to The Cask of Amontillado, the spine tingling tales of Edgar Allen Poe get a whole lot scarier when they’re set to live, classical chamber music and read aloud by WordStage. We might even dim the lights, too! This special event will take place in the First Floor Multipurpose Room.

OCTOBER 30  Joe DeJarnette Jazz Ensemble
A jazz legend lives in Lakewood. As a teacher, a trumpeter and a bandleader, Joe DeJarnette works hard every day to keep the music he loves fresh and alive. Nothing can exhaust his passion. This special pre-Halloween concert, featuring Joe’s handpicked ensemble of friends and rivals, will get downright spooky with slithering syncopation and creepy chromatics. You’ve been warned!

NOVEMBER 6  Opera for You
Elegance returns to grace the Library with another showcase of wonderful arias and exquisite scenes from famous operas by baroque, classical and romantic composers. This special event will take place in the First Floor Multipurpose Room.
NOVEMBER 13 An Encounter with Ki Allen
Noted blues guitarist Michael Bay has the pleasure of accompanying one of the great jazz voices in Cleveland—the inimitable Ki Allen. Her warm, clever phrasings will be a welcome addition to your humming repertoire for years to come.

DECEMBER 4 The Happy Holiday Bob Ford
Fun loving Bob is known for combining Celtic folk music with tall tales of the American frontier. On this jolly Sunday, he’ll be adding holiday favorites to the mix for a lighthearted afternoon of gingerbread goodness.

DECEMBER 11 The Flip Side
You’ve seen them around town, playing solo, in duos and all together. The Flipside is like five bands in one! Their gentle harmonies and earnest dedication to music and community allow them to put a personal stamp on their repertoire of original songs, folk standards and classic rock.

JANUARY 8 Jim Volk Guitar
His masterful yet whimsical performances have spellbound audiences for decades. With a fiery hybrid style of guitar picking that has drawn comparisons to Kottke, Keagy and Hedges, Jim Volk romps through the history of music, from 16th century classical to ‘70s metal with a few deft flicks of the wrist.

JANUARY 15 Neil Jacobs: American Gypsy
Drawing inspiration from far-flung travels and his own improbable life, Neil Jacobs writes music for the 12-string guitar that lets you know what it feels like to caravan with modern-day Gypsies in Spain, break bread in a Balkan refugee camp and saddle up with surreal cowboy dreamers.

JANUARY 22 Millionaire’s Mile: The Great Estates of Wickliffe
What does The King’s Speech have to do with Cleveland? We could tell you, but trust us—you’d rather hear it from the master, Dan Ruminski. He’s got a story filled with Rockefellers, Corrigans, McKinneys and Coulbys that that would rival any Greek tragedy. You’ll never look at Wickliffe the same again!

FEBRUARY 5 The Hollywood Slim Trio
Hollywood Slim and his brother John have been harmonizing on swing, jazz and blues standards for over thirty-five years and they’re still having a ball, learning new tricks and playing old favorites. You can’t go see Ray Charles, Little Walter or Nat “King” Cole anymore, so come to the Library and catch a glimpse of one of Cleveland’s best kept secrets.

FEBRUARY 19 Northcoast Jazz Collective
What can we say? According to Scene Magazine, these guys are the Best Jazz Group around. Playing straight up modern jazz that’s creative, emotional and accessible, this quartet braves the post-bop world with a hard-working trademark sound that says Cleveland all the way. We can’t think of a better way to say goodbye to another great season of Sundays…
IN A NUTSHELL
The Worlds of Maurice Sendak

On Display in the Second Floor Gallery
December 28 through February 24

Maurice Sendak is best known as the illustrator of more than 100 picture books, including Where the Wild Things Are and In the Night Kitchen. Sendak was born in Brooklyn in 1928, and his childhood was typically American in a number of ways. He still reminisces about childhood friends, family dramas, and the sights and smells of New York in the 1930s. Yet, while he was growing up, he also felt a powerful attraction to the worn, black-and-white photographs of his European relatives: “When my mother and father came to America, which was just a few years before World War I, their family sent photographs. They were all murdered in concentration camps and I knew that at an early age… To go through the family album and to see what I thought were these beautiful people who were dead, was unbelievable. All of that was a re-creation of a world I never knew. And I was fascinated with the shtetl world of the European Jew.” The push and pull of New and Old Worlds in Sendak’s memory makes his work playful and dynamic, but also haunting and complex. This exhibit explores those threads of Jewish family, geography, and culture in Sendak’s life, and the way he imaginatively weaves them into his picture books. Opening Reception with Rabbi Alan Lettovsky, Beth Israel-The West Temple Thursday, January 5 at 7:00 p.m. in the Second Floor Gallery

2. Really Rosie: Starring the Nutshell Kids, © 1975 by Maurice Sendak, all rights reserved.
3. Where the Wild Things Are, © 1963 by Maurice Sendak, all rights reserved.
This intimate documentary look at the life and art of Maurice Sendak is not afraid to portray its subject as a curmudgeon. At eighty-one years old, he says what he means and it's not always polite. Can we blame him? Looking back at a long career, the artist can remember a time when his beloved stories were considered inappropriate for children. Now he's supposed to sit still while we call him a genius? This funny and frank film perseveres to honor its reluctant subject—the funny Jewish kid from Brooklyn who became the favorite artist of generations of American children.

Coming to America: Cleveland's Jewish Community
The Sendaks' struggle to assimilate into American life is not so different from the experience of Cleveland's early Jewish settlers. This illustrated lecture features images and objects from the Maltz Museum collection that reveal how the preservation of tradition continued alongside the desire to become an American.

Guided Tour of the Maltz Museum of Jewish Heritage
This special guided tour of the American Story Gallery examines the concerns of Jewish immigrants to Cleveland during the great waves of immigration in the first half of the 20th century and explores the tensions between ethnic identity, ancient traditions, American citizenship and the ongoing creation of a multicultural nation. After the tour, explore other Museum galleries on your own. Space is limited.

You know the story! When the mischievous, wolf-suited Max is sent to bed without his supper, he runs away through the forest of his mind and sails to the Island of the Wild Things where he conquers all and dances in the Wild Rumpus! Director Spike Jonze transforms the Caldecott Award-winning classic into a piece of pure cinema with a masterful visual approach beyond the imagination of just about everyone but Max.

Those who love murder, mystery and mayhem will find themselves in good company here. Discuss award-winning mysteries, hone your crime-fighting skills and help solve the mystery of, “Whatever happened to Andrea Fisher?” Find your first clue at www.lakewoodpubliclibrary.org/bookclubs.

The Lock Artist by Steve Hamilton
From the beginning all we know about Mike Smith is that he can pick locks and hasn't said a word in ten years. The mystery here isn’t “Whodunit?” but “Why did he do it?” The puzzle of this young man and the story of the crime that puts him away unravel slowly but inevitably and will leave the taste of prison gruel in your mouth. But you might learn something about picking locks along the way.

Thursday, September 8 at 7:00 p.m. in the Main Library Meeting Room

The Rescue Artist: A True Story of Art, Thieves, and the Hunt for a Missing Masterpiece by Edward Dolnick
Scotland Yard art sleuth Charley Hill is called into service when Norwegian police are stumped by a daring theft. It seems that two thieves brazenly entered Norway’s National Gallery on the morning the 1994 Winter Olympics opened in Lillehammer and walked away with Edvard Munch’s The Scream. Bizarre twists, colorful bad guys and modern art are no match for this charming real-life detective.

Thursday, October 13 at 7:00 p.m. in the Main Library Meeting Room

Blue Heaven by C.J. Box
Small town Idaho is the setting for a grisly crime in the woods witnessed by a young brother and sister. It’s a good thing that Blue Heaven is a community filled with retired LAPD, but crooked cops retire, too. With the kids on the run for their lives, an inexperienced sheriff turns to the killers for help. Can a bad luck cowboy save the day?

Thursday, November 10 at 7:00 p.m. in the Main Library Meeting Room

Mr. White’s Confession by Robert Clark
The eccentric Herbert White enjoys photography and has a bad memory. This combination proves disastrous when two dancers he takes photos of wind up murdered. Lieutenant Wesley Horner can’t decide if Mr. White is guilty or just a convenient patsy. Meanwhile, the policeman has his hands full with his vagrant mistress and corrupt cops on all sides. If Mr. White can’t remember, can justice be served?

Thursday, January 12 at 7:00 p.m. in the Main Library Meeting Room

Down River by John Hart
Though he was acquitted of the murder of a small town football star, many people still believe that Adam Chase is a coldblooded murderer—even his parents. When he is unexpectedly called back home by an old friend, the old demons return and suspicion, rumor and death soon follow. This thriller is packed with enough family drama to fill the cast of a Shakespearean tragedy.

KNIT AND LIT BOOK CLUB

Gail Eaton hosts a social club for multitaskers—a combination book club and stitchery group. She’s looking for readers who can enjoy intense discussion of modern classics while relaxing with their latest project. Come share your passion for great literature and show off your knitting, crocheting, counted cross-stitch, embroidery and quilting works-in-progress. At the close of every meeting, the group decides which book will be read for next time.

Visit www.lakewoodpubliclibrary.org/bookclubs for a complete list of the books being considered and find out which title you should read for the next discussion.

MEET THE AUTHOR

The White Museum by George Bilgere

The curator of this particular collection is a poet with a predilection for American colloquialism. That is to say—he speaks like you and me with just a hint of that guy down the street. Most poetry is hard to judge, but this is easy to listen to... funny and free with just enough sadness that you don’t look at your watch and make excuses. “I was pouring your coffee / and suddenly the whole house made sense...” It sounds better when he says it.

Books will be available for sale and signing at the event.

Tomorrowland by Grant Bailie

“Hello. This is the future. See our spaceships. See our moving sidewalks and silent cars. See our tallest, shiniest building and the bright blue sky that teeters upon its point. Walk in our quiet parks and observe the pretty, handsome people, the brightly colored birds living happily in cages built or evolved right into the trees. So much seems to have changed over the years, and yet at certain angles, under certain lights, this world might look the same as it did a decade or a century ago. We seldom tear down and build up from scratch completely. There is always the refurbished, the recreated, the renewed. And away from the city, in other neighborhoods, on other planets, it will forever be the style to live in old-fashioned homes, with wrought iron fences, lampposts and all the trappings of what we imagine to be a more innocent time. Our vehicles (Metal or plastic? Three wheels or four?) might give us away, but we tuck them neatly behind the antiqued wooden doors of garages made to look like carriage houses. And really, our cars and clothes are not so different as you might imagine. Styles change and change back again. Technology advances but then hides itself. People themselves do not evolve (no larger foreheads or telepathic powers, I am sorry to tell you) and if it were to all fall apart tomorrow it would not be long before witches would be burned at the stake again and some randomly selected race or class run out of town on a rail. But it will not all fall apart tomorrow. We will go bravely forward, making new discoveries, inventing new things, then hiding them all behind the wood paneling, the fake bookcase, a plastic shrub.” Books will be available for sale and signing at the event.

From The Sparrow to Doc and Other Novels by Mary Doria Russell

In her critically acclaimed debut novel, a Jesuit priest is the first human being to make contact with an alien civilization. “It was predictable, in hindsight. Everything about the history of the Society of Jesus bespoke deft and efficient action, exploration and research. During what Europeans were pleased to call the Age of Discovery, Jesuit priests were never more than a year or two behind the men who made initial contact with previously unknown peoples; indeed, Jesuits were often the vanguard of exploration.” Since then, Maria Doria Russell continues working to reconcile divine inspiration with human experience, exploring subjects ranging from Jewish refugees in the Italian Resistance to the foundation of the modern Middle East at the Cairo Peace Conference.

In her latest book, Russell tackles the Western and the murder mystery with no less an icon than Doc Holliday as her leading man. It may sound like an odd departure at first, but watch as Russell peels away layers of wild west cliché and reveals the human beings inside the heroes. These gunfighters have never been more compelling. Books will be available for sale and signing at the event.

FILM NEO NOIR:
Out of the Past and into the Future

We tend to think of Film Noir as a popular style of American cinema from the ‘40s and ‘50s, but we have to remember that those films were made by instinct and were not part of a conscious genre like gangster pictures or Westerns. It wasn’t until the ‘60s that scholars and filmmakers began to regard Film Noir as a recognizable category. Looking back at the recurring themes and character types, a new genre was born and modern filmmakers began to create their own Neo Noirs. For this series, Professor Terry Meehan has selected one title from each decade and will provide his own special features in the form of rare clips and original documentaries. The audience is invited to stay after the show to discuss each director’s unique approach and trace it all the way back to Sam Spade sitting alone in the dark.

Seconds (1966)  Directed by John Frankenheimer  Rated R
Anxiety and shadows creep into the life of a man who accepts a mysterious offer to alter his physical appearance to that of a young Rock Hudson. What could possibly go wrong? Frankenheimer’s edgy direction is ahead of its time, and his choice of James Wong Howe as cinematographer is a master stroke. The surreal, disillusioning world created by the filmmakers makes for a memorably frightening Film Noir nightmare.
Saturday, September 3 at 6:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium

The Long Goodbye (1973)  Directed by Robert Altman  Rated R
Robert Altman drags detective Philip Marlowe kicking and screaming into the ‘70s in the body of Eliot Gould. While Raymond Chandler’s legendary gumshoe investigates the disappearance of a friend, a mysterious blonde shows up asking him to look for her novelist husband, Sterling Hayden. Does she really want him found? Altman seems to be making a Film Noir and taking it apart at the same time. Leigh Bracket, the celebrated screenwriter of The Big Sleep (1946)—arguably the greatest of Marlowe’s onscreen adventures—lends a hand.

On a hot summer evening on the Florida coast, the classic femme fatale returns in the form of Kathleen Turner. Waiting for her at the bar is William Hurt, a small-town lawyer who is smitten by her beauty and her throaty innuendos. But Turner has a husband who stands in the way... Kasdan’s first picture may be a throwback to old school Noirs, but the age-old themes of lust and greed were not exactly out of place in the ‘80s.

The Last Seduction (1994)  Directed by John Dahl  Rated R
Linda Fiorentino plays evil with such relish that we may have to award her a prize for being the most fatal of femmes. Barbara Stanwyck and Jane Greer, you’ve met your match! And so will several fall guys whom she uses to get what she wants... After duping her husband, Bill Pullman, into pulling off a $700,000 drug deal, Fiorentino steals the money and disappears. Then Peter Berg makes the mistake of trying to pick her up in a small town bar. What’ll happen to the next guy?

The Man who Wasn’t There (2001)  Directed by Joel and Ethan Coen  Rated R
Billy Bob Thornton stars as a taciturn barber who hatches a revenge blackmail scheme on his cheating wife and her lover boss that will bankroll his new life as a dry cleaning mogul. (It’s a new invention.) But someone gets murdered and someone else gets blamed. Thornton’s deadpan voiceover and the film’s slick black-and-white cinematography hark back to the early days. But with the Coen Brothers, there might be more than meets the eye.
Saturday, February 4 at 6:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium
These crowd-friendly films were meant to be enjoyed out loud. No cartwheels in the Library, please.

Star Trek (2009) Directed by J.J. Abrams Rated PG-13
J.J. Abrams, the creator of Lost, puts Trek fans on notice and reclaims the series for the rest of us with a swashbuckling adventure that throws out the rulebook and starts from scratch. They didn’t just get new actors—this movie turns the whole Star Trek universe inside out and makes it worth watching on the big screen. But don’t worry—Leonard Nimoy still rocks his Spock ears.

Saturday, September 10 at 6:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium

Rushmore (1998) Directed by Wes Anderson Rated R
Falling in love is a great excuse to be foolhardy. And being a misunderstood teenager is the best reason to throw your life away on a dream that isn’t even yours. But Max Fischer, the greatest genius and worst student in the history of Rushmore Academy, will lick his wounds and rise again in this bittersweet comedy about the troubled relationships that befall idols and their pedestals. Did we mention Bill Murray’s mustache?

Saturday, October 8 at 6:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium

Gremlins (1984) Directed by Joe Dante Rated PG
The scariest, funniest, most merchandised holiday film of all time still thrills—especially when you watch it with a room full of movie lovers. So put off your shopping for one more day and enjoy a night out with the whole family. Yes, you can bring your own snacks—but don’t feed them after midnight!

Funny People (2009) Directed by Judd Apatow Rated R
Adam Sandler is dying. That may be good news to some of you, but perhaps you’ll reconsider after his unflinching performance in this hilarious drama about the dysfunctional lives of people who are funny for money. Seth Rogen co-stars as an up-and-coming comic who gets a golden chance to be his idol’s lackey and finds himself torn between disillusionment and opportunity. Everybody suffers, of course, but is it funny?

Malcolm X (1992) Directed by Spike Lee Rated PG-13
A lot of people were nervous about this movie. When it was first announced that Spike Lee was going to make a biopic about America’s most controversial civil rights leader, the media treated it like an impending crisis. But once it was finally released, the critics were silenced. This American epic flees burning crosses, conks its hair, jitterbugs across the dance floor, lands in jail and copies out the dictionary. And its troubled hero rises above a world of hate to make a pilgrimage beyond prejudice to love and respect. Not even an assassin’s bullet could stop this story from being a triumph for all. “I am Malcolm X!”

Joe Versus the Volcano (1990) Directed by John Patrick Shanley Rated PG
This wry fairy tale is a Tom Hanks/Meg Ryan romantic comedy for people who don’t particularly like those kinds of movies. A miserable office drudge discovers the simple fact that life is worth living when he prepares to sacrifice himself to the angry volcano that threatens a South Sea island paradise. Abe Vigoda, Ossie Davis and Lloyd Bridges bring the laughter with one gem performance after another while a clever selection of songs conspires with the moon to move you to tears of joy.

The More The Merrier (1943) Directed by George Stevens Not Rated
It’s World War II and Washington, D.C. is suffering from a severe housing shortage. Jean Arthur, a pretty working girl, advertises her apartment to share and Charles Coburn, an elderly millionaire with an eccentric streak, talks her into letting him move in. But when she’s out, he pretends that he’s the sole occupant and rents a room to handsome young Joel McCrea. It only gets wilder from there!

SILENT MOVIE LIVE with David Drazin

Sherlock Jr. (1924)
Written and Directed by Buster Keaton
Let’s go back in time! David Drazin is a nationally-recognized pianist who specializes in the lost art of silent film accompaniment. You won’t find any sheet music and you won’t hear any ragtime. David is known for his live improvisation with jazz and blues over black and white. To put him to the test, we’ll be screening Buster Keaton’s eye-popping comic masterpiece about a lovelorn projectionist who literally jumps in and out of the picture. You won’t believe your eyes and you won’t believe your ears! Bring snacks for the whole family, but chew quietly… We’re trying to listen to a silent movie.

The Dreamers (2003)
Directed by Bernardo Bertolucci
Rated R
It is 1968 and Paris is burning with the fever of revolution. Outside the chained gates of the Cinematheque Francaise, a naïve American student meets Isabelle and Theo, beautiful French twins, and with one puff of smoke from her perfectly pouted lips his fate is sealed forever. An innocent dinner invitation leads to fast friendships and soon a game is revealed where the boundaries between love, lust and cinema are blurred with abandon.

Jake Gyllenhaal is a troubled kid living in a strange world. He doesn’t sleep right. The gaps in his memory lead to sinister clues. And wormholes, a giant talking bunny named Frank and a jet engine falling through the roof of his house are just a few of his concerns. Sometimes he feels like he’s standing in the way of the world. At least he has one last chance to look around and appreciate the neighborhood.

A Wonderful Night in Split (2004)
Directed by Arsen Anton Ostojic
Rated R
Three lost souls spend New Year’s Eve winding their way through the dark medieval streets of Split, Croatia. Navigating a new world only recently thrust from the old, each is seeking escape through deceit, drugs or sex. Featuring Coolio (yes, Coolio) as a U.S. Navy man on leave and Eastern European musical pop sensation Dino Dvornik, this is one of the most memorable films to come out of the new Eastern European cinema.

Directed by Michel Gondry
Rated R
Can love survive a mindwipe? Jim Carrey has a broken heart and he needs to forget the painful memories of all those late night fights and how much worse it felt when she finally left. Kate Winslet loved him, but she’s ready to shed all her memories of the good times when a doctor promises her the cure for heartache. As the past stretches out, shrinks and slowly fades, they try to hold on before it is too late.

STEPHEN KING’S COLORADO

The rugged landscapes of Boulder, Colorado provided a memorable setting for one of Stephen King’s most popular works, The Stand. Back in 1989, our friend, local Librarian Ed Rossman, traveled to Boulder with Stephen King’s permission to film a documentary relating scenes in the book to their settings. For this program, Rossman has incorporated photographs from that project and expanded upon his original premise to create a travelogue that showcases the natural beauty of Colorado and sheds light on the inspiration behind memorable scenes in The Stand, The Shining and Misery. Rossman will also take time to put King’s career into context for more casual readers and discuss the author’s current activities and upcoming releases.

“We Are The Boys That Fear No Noise”
Experience the Civil War through the words of a family that sent five sons to war. These never-before-published letters from the battlefield, read by members of the Western Reserve Civil War Round Table, provide insight into the humor, the pain and the optimistic struggle of an unfathomable sacrifice. This program was developed by Jack Rupert and Barbara Breese Winbigler, Lakewood High School Class of 1945.

From Slavery to Freedom: The Underground Railroad
During the first half of this powerful lecture, Dr. Deborah Abbott appears as a runaway slave, risking her own freedom to teach the audience about the ways of the Underground Railroad. Listen carefully! Her knowledge and hard-earned experience just might save your life. In the second half, the former professor and past president of the African-American Genealogical Society reveals the secret routes that ran through Ohio and discusses the state’s impact on the movement. All the while, she never forgets the people who risked everything for simple human dignity.

LIBRARY FOUNDATION ANNOUNCES SCULPTOR

After a year long search, the Lakewood Public Library Foundation’s Art Selection Committee is proud to announce that they have chosen Peter Diepenbrock to design and install a new Lakewood landmark on the northwest lawn of the Main Library. Hailing from the Rhode Island School of Design, Diepenbrock is a sculptor and industrial designer with twenty-five years of experience turning personal visions into concrete realities that will stand the test of time. He has designed everything from large, outdoor works that redefine their surroundings to delicate ornaments for the White House Christmas tree. One of the Committee’s favorite pieces, found at www.peterdiepenbrock.com, is a lizard-like objet d’art in iron that doubles as a bottle opener.

So what will it look like? The Art Selection committee has decided to keep the final design under wraps until the installation in late October, but nothing can stop the speculation. Will it be a classical piece? Abstract? Is it a sculpture about the Library? Or is it more about Lakewood? The answer to all of these questions is yes. The remarkable thing about Diepenbrock’s design is its inexhaustible beauty and the endless number of ways it can be viewed and experienced. Far from being some dry intellectual exercise, this is art that a child can marvel at. And as that child grows into adulthood and even old age, they will always be able to find refreshing new perspectives. It will be an old friend and a font of new ideas. Maybe it is about the Library, after all...

Before being chosen, Diepenbrock visited the Library earlier this year and met with members of the Art Selection Committee and Director James Crawford to get a feel for the project. After their meeting was long over, Crawford was pleased to find the artist hours later still studying the site and, more importantly, the Library and the community around it. In his application to the Committee, Diepenbrock said, “With a strong basis in design, I approach all sites with a fresh eye, and intentionally avoid preconceived solutions. I look at pedestrian vantage points, and movements, architectural and landscape features and look for the opportunities inherent in a site.”

On that cold, drizzly Sunday afternoon, Diepenbrock was stunned to learn that the Library was open on a weekend. (Most aren’t these days.) Before his meeting began, he took the time to stroll through the crowds. So much activity! The people buzzing around him were carrying armloads of books, racing for the computers, heading downstairs for a concert, chatting with neighbors, enjoying their time. There were children making crafts, hipsters hunting through movies and CDs and people of all stripes simply reading.

Diepenbrock already wanted the job, of course. He’d always liked public libraries. But his experience that day cemented his admiration and deepened his resolve. Despite the weather, he studied the future site for hours. He walked and drove around it and made sure that he saw it—really saw it—from all angles. He was determined to come up with something really special... He succeeded.

We can’t wait to show it to you.

Special thanks goes the Lakewood Public Library Foundation’s Art Selection Committee. Two hundred and two talented artists from across the country applied for the commission and the hardworking members of the committee read every letter and examined thousands of photographs. They volunteered their time at long, long meetings where they debated the merits of each applicant and discussed the purpose of public art. There were many viewpoints, but no heated exchanges. Instead, their diverse experiences became their strength as they considered the architecture, the land, the Library as an institution, Lakewood as a community, the controversies of art, the relationship between truth and beauty and the practical matter of getting the thing in the ground before winter. Thank you Mary Anne Crampton, Dan Cuffaro, Tiffany Graham, Marcia Hall, Nancy Seibert, Lucy Sinagra and Ruth Weible.

No taxpayer funds will be used on this project. All funding was raised through private donations by the Lakewood Public Library Foundation. To learn more about this worthy group, visit www.lakewoodpubliclibrary.org/foundation or turn to page 29 of this booklet.

New Books, New Movies and New Music
Contrary to popular belief, the Library has not stopped buying new materials. In fact, over the last two years, we’ve added nearly 70,000 items to our collection—thousands of books, thousands of movies and thousands and thousands of songs. How many have you checked out? Stop by the New Additions section in the Main Library’s AV room to see the latest DVDs and CDs. Take a trip down the New Arrivals aisle of the New Book Room for the freshest ink. And the Madison Branch? You can’t take two steps in the Madison Branch without finding something new. Can you believe they’ve added 15,000 new items?

We like to mix it up when we place our orders, buying the kinds of things we know you love and sprinkling in things you’ll love to discover. Local authors share shelf space with monster bestsellers. Obscure bands go head-to-head with the pop bands who “borrowed” from them. We’ve got cinema from countries you’ve never heard of and documentaries about things you have to see to believe. Don’t forget the graphic novels, audiobooks, TV shows, and magazines. Did we miss something? Let us know. We’re proud to say we’ve built this collection around your suggestions.

New Kinds of Books, Movies and Music with OverDrive
The Library is proud to announce that it has greatly expanded its collection of eBooks, audiobooks, digital music and digital videos by joining forces with the Ohio eBook Project and OverDrive. Tens of thousands of new titles are now available at www.lakewoodpubliclibrary.org/overdrive. More titles are being added every day. All you need is your Library card, an Internet connection and a mighty thirst for a new digital experience!

Once you find something you like (and that won’t take long), simply use the ID on the back of your Library card to check out the item. The OverDrive Media Console App will help you download the item to your PC, Mac, phone, or tablet and then you’re all set. You can either enjoy your free goodness on that machine or transfer it to something more portable. The list of compatible devices grows every day. Best of all, titles automatically expire at the end of the lending period so you never have to worry about returns or late fees!

New Ways to Get Your Stuff
So how do you find out about all the new items available in our collection? Well, if you don’t spend every day at the Library like we do, you might consider subscribing to the LPL Newsletter. This newly-redesigned weekly email announcement delivers Library news, staff reviews and listings of all the new books, DVDs and CDs we’re adding every day. Best of all, when you see something you like, you can simply click on the item and place your hold right then and there! Visit www.lakewoodpubliclibrary.org/maillist and subscribe today.

By the way, if you’re going to place a hold on an item because you can’t wait to read that book, see that movie or sing along with that song, then why wait for your notice to arrive by mail? 30,000 Lakewood cardholders have made the switch from paper and postage to electronic notification because they want to know the moment that their item becomes available. Maybe you’re not in a hurry, but the Library saves a ton of money when it sends emails and texts instead of tree-killing postcards. That’s money we could be using to buy more new stuff!

New Friends
Venturing out in the social media world on your own can be scary. But have no fear. The Lakewood Public Library will like you, friend you, follow you and listen to your twittering late at night. Let’s team up and tell the world how much we mean to each other! You can find our info at www.lakewoodpubliclibrary.org/social.

Of course, the best buddies that the Library has ever had are the Friends of Lakewood Public Library who work tirelessly to find good homes for used books, raise funds for the wonderful programs you see in this guide, send charity and goodwill around the world and just generally have our backs. Becoming a volunteer is easier than ever. Visit them online at www.lakewoodpubliclibrary.org/friends and click that big friendly button.

For over 15 years, the Lakewood Public Library Foundation has been committed to enriching the Library to meet the needs of the Lakewood community.

Currently, the Foundation is sponsoring the “Call for Art” and acquiring funds for public art in and around the Library. Our current focus area is outside the northwest corner of the Library. From over 200 applications across the country, the Art Selection Committee has chosen an artist to design the piece. It will be installed this fall. We are confident the sculpture embodies the spirit of the Library while adding to the character of the downtown district. We have other areas targeted for public art and will continue to seek funds for these projects.

In addition to our core task of building up the endowment fund, the Foundation’s continuing efforts include funding ACT test preparation courses for Lakewood residents attending high school. By providing the ACT course, which normally costs hundreds of dollars per participant, our goal is to give Lakewood students an opportunity to score better on the college entrance test. Higher test scores can lead to more choice in college options and/or qualifying for more scholarship dollars for these Lakewood students. Last spring we sponsored 25 students in the course. (See page 17 to learn more.)

As a 501c3 organization, the Foundation is recognized as a non-profit charitable organization, which operates for the exclusive benefit of the Lakewood Public Library. The Foundation seeks financial support from corporations, foundations and individuals to enhance Library collections, equipment, facilities, and services.

Our Library is a treasure in Lakewood that everyone can use and enjoy. I hope you will consider donating to the Lakewood Public Library Foundation to help us continue to support and enhance the Library.

Sincerely,

Lynn Foran
President

Dear Friends,

The Friends have enjoyed 2011. It feels good to volunteer for an organization where you can see your efforts have a direct impact on the community. We are still charging the same prices that we did in 1980 because we can afford to do it. We have expanded our revenues by selling rare books online, offering daily bargains in the Main Library Atrium and adding special Front Porch sales to coincide with community events.

Of course, none of this would be possible without the high quality materials supplied by our donors. We appreciate your generosity. We also appreciate the patronage of those who make purchases. All proceeds go to support the Library with materials and programming—everything from the movies and concerts in this Program Guide to the Summer Reading Program.

Getting the materials ready for each sale is physically demanding work. It takes sharp minds, too. We depend on a core group of dedicated volunteers to get the job done, but many of us are now in our 80s. We need new Friends with strong bodies and a desire to contribute to Lakewood’s book-loving community. Can you spare a few hours? Signing up to volunteer is now as easy as visiting www.lakewoodpubliclibrary.org/friends or inquiring at any Library desk. We hope to hear from you soon.

Thank you for your continued support!

Paul Dimmick
President
