Continuing Our Celebration

The Lakewood Public Library first opened its doors on May 19, 1916 with only ten thousand books to offer the burgeoning streetcar community that built it. But as the city grew, so did the Library, adding thousands of volumes of science, art, history, law and literature every year to serve the needs of the knowledge seekers who flocked to Lakewood from all over the region. As other cities began erecting fine institutions of their own, the Library continued to expand with a series of major construction projects scattered over the decades. A close look at the building reveals that the original architecture has long since given way, unable to contain the explosive ambitions of a vibrant community. But the little Carnegie Library on Detroit, founded by early Lakewoodites as an investment in the future, was the seed of our success. And as Lakewood has prospered, becoming one of the finest places in the country to live and raise a family, its Library has grown beside it, becoming a world-class institution.

That tradition of excellence continues to this day. The Lakewood Public Library is consistently ranked among the best libraries in the nation, competing with large institutions far outside its weight class, but we proudly remain a local library. We have a collection founded on essential knowledge and shaped by the interests of our robust population. A walk through the stacks reveals a grand Lakewood conversation taking place between generations, backgrounds and worldviews. The works of local authors, artists, scholars, historians, filmmakers and musicians line the shelves. We read side-by-side with our neighbors in the Grand Reading Room, and we gather for celebrations on the front steps.

Today, the Library boasts nearly a half-a-million items available for checkout with one of the lowest cost-per-circulation ratios in the county. We’re also open more hours than any Library in the state—hours for hardworking people! Two convenient locations put the Library within walking distance of every Lakewoodite. And a wide variety of free concerts, films, story times, lectures and classes for children, adults and seniors make the Library the place where Lakewood comes together.

This birthday deserves more than just a one day party, so we intend to stretch out the festivities all year. We hope you will join us for the many days, and exciting events left in our year of celebration. It is, after all, the first year in the next hundred years of our service to you, and that is something to celebrate.
MEET THE AUTHOR

60 Hikes Within 60 Miles: Cleveland
By Diane Stresing
Thursday, September 1 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

60 Hikes Within 60 Miles: Cleveland introduces newcomers and lifelong residents alike to a surprising array of the best day hikes within a sixty-mile radius of our fascinating city. Residents and visitors-in-the-know appreciate the many outdoor recreational opportunities this “All American City” has to offer. The Plain Dealer says, “60 Hikes Within 60 Miles, which covers the Cleveland, Akron and Canton areas, is a valuable resource guide — and an inspiration to move beyond your well-worn local paths.”

60 Hikes Within 60 Miles: Cleveland points hikers to the best outdoor trails and rambles within easy reach of the city. A lifelong Buckeye, Diane Stresing has called Cleveland home since 1989. When she’s not hiking, biking, watching soccer games or walking her dogs, Stresing works as a copywriter and business consultant. Books will be available for sale and signing at the event.

Pedaling on the North Coast: Biking the Streets of Greater Cleveland
By Murray Fishel and Stan Purdum
Thursday, September 8 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Pedaling on the North Coast is your guide to the best routes in the greater Cleveland area. From lakeside rides to trips to Cleveland landmarks like the historic West Side Market, Pedaling on the North Coast is the perfect companion for everyone from the casual cyclist to the seasoned vet. Co-author Murray Fishel is a late arrival to bicycling. He started at age fifty-one, one year before retiring as an Emeritus Professor of Political Science at Kent State University in 1991. Fishel realized that he needed to find a healthy activity that he could enjoy in his retirement. He chose biking because he read an article in the Plain Dealer about it and remembered the fun he had as a kid on his Murray bike. He decided to risk buying one, knowing that he could resell it if he didn’t like it. That was about 130,000 miles, all fifty states and ten countries ago. Books will be available for sale and signing at the event.

Cat & Cat: A Novel in Three Movements
By Mark E. Kozak
Thursday, September 15 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

From underemployment to unemployment, Chris Telamon’s life hasn’t quite worked out the way he’s planned. Not even close. Now, after being laid-off from a job he never wanted in the first place, Chris finds himself at a crossroads. Staying the course means one more ride aboard the ceaseless, soul-sucking merry-go-round of ring-around-the-collar jobs and desktop drudgery. The other path, however, meanders into the backyard of his shadowy neighbor, paroled sex offender Ron Barnes, and straight into the midst of a multi-state police investigation. Cat & Cat propels everyman Chris Telamon into a game of human chess where his every move forces him to face his future by confronting his past. Mark Kozak is a writer, musician, Cleveland sports fan, pop culture addict and fringewatcher. He graduated with a degree in English from Ohio University, and then promptly began working a series of jobs wholly unrelated to his degree. He currently resides in Avon Lake. Books will be available for sale and signing at the event.
My Life, My Letters & My Loves: Exploring an Ordinary Life
By Alida Henriette Struze
Introduced by Joseph Meissner
Thursday, September 29 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium.
This book is precisely what the title says it is: a book that describes the life of ninety-four-year-old Alida Henriette Struze. It contains sixty-five Christmas letters that she wrote each year beginning in 1950 until 2014. Each annual Christmas letter provides the reader with a peek into Struze’s life, as well as a snapshot of history, especially of Cleveland and her hometown of Lakewood, as she cites some memorable world events for a given year. She shares information about the church which has always been so important in her life. She also publicly shares for the first time her forbidden romance that began in childhood and remained a closely held secret throughout her adult life. Struze is a lifelong resident of Lakewood, where she has been a pillar of the community. Her work at the Legal Aid Society has impacted many, including Joseph Meissner, a Cleveland based attorney who will be introducing Ms. Struze. Books will be available for sale and signing at the event.

A Madness So Discreet
By Mindy McGinnis
Thursday, October 13 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

A Madness So Discreet is a young adult Gothic historical thriller that won the Edgar Award and is also a finalist for the Ohioana Book Award. Mindy McGinnis, combines murder, madness, and mystery in a beautifully twisted thriller perfect for fans of novels such as Asylum and The Diviners as well as television’s True Detective and American Horror Story. Grace Mae is already familiar with madness when family secrets and the bulge in her belly send her to an insane asylum—but it is in the darkness that she finds a new lease on life. When a visiting doctor interested in criminal psychology recognizes Grace’s brilliant mind beneath her rage, he recruits her as his assistant. Continuing to operate under the cloak of madness at crime scenes allows her to gather clues from bystanders who believe her less than human. But gruesome nights bring Grace and the doctor into the circle of a killer who will bring her shaky sanity and the demons in her past dangerously close to the surface.

USA Today says A Madness So Discreet is, “a bountiful buffet of twisted, dark intrigue. McGinnis can surely tell a story.” Mindy McGinnis is a Young Adult author who has worked in a high school library for thirteen years. She graduated from Otterbein University magna cum laude with a BA in English Literature and Religion. Books will be available for sale and signing at the event.

Death’s Summer Coat
By Brandy Schillace, PhD
Thursday, October 20 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Death is something we all confront—it touches our families, our homes, our hearts. And yet we have grown used to denying its existence, treating it as an enemy to be beaten back with medical advances. We are living at a unique point in human history. People are living longer than ever, and the longer we live, the more taboo and alien our mortality becomes. Yet we, and our loved ones, still remain mortal. People today struggle with this fact, as we have done throughout our entire history. What led us to this point? What drove us to sanitize death and make it foreign and unfamiliar? Brandy Schillace, PhD, works at the intersections of medicine, history and literature. Dr. Shillace serves as Research Associate and Public Engagement Fellow for the Dittrick Museum of Medical History (Case Western Reserve University) and Managing Editor of Culture, Medicine and Psychiatry, a cross-cultural medical anthropology journal. Books will be available for sale and signing at the event.
Ghosthunting Ohio

By John B. Kachuba
Thursday, October 27 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

This book features more than thirty legendary haunted places, all of which are open to the public—so you can test your own ghost hunting skills, if you dare. John Kachuba personally visits each site, snooping around eerie rooms and dark corners, talking to people who swear to their paranormal experiences and giving you a first-hand account. Come and watch Kachuba, a first-rate story teller, relate chilling accounts of his ghost hunting adventures at over eighty haunted locations across America, many of them right here in the Buckeye State, including the Majestic Theatre in Chillicothe where army victims of the 1918 Spanish influenza epidemic were “stacked like cordwood” and Fort Meigs in Perrysburg where an invisible soldier has been known to walk employees to their cars at night, and the Cincinnati Art Museum, home to at least three ghosts. Kachuba is an award-winning writer and paranormal researcher with twelve books to his credit, including four about ghosts and ghost hunting. He is a frequent speaker at conferences, libraries and universities and on radio and TV. He also teaches Creative Writing at Ohio University and Antioch University Midwest and is on the faculty of the Gotham Writers Workshop. Books will be available for sale and signing at the event.

Unsolved Murders and Disappearances in Northeast Ohio

By Jane Ann Turzillo
Thursday, December 1 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

In 1921, Louise Wolf and Mabel Foote, Parma teachers, were on their way to school one winter morning when a maniac sprang from the bushes and bludgeoned them to death. When young Melvin Horst went missing on his way home from playing with friends in an Orrville schoolyard in 1928, many thought he was kidnapped or accidentally killed by a bootlegger’s car. During the 1920s, Cleveland Councilman Rarin’ Bill Potter was known to make deals—some ethical and some not so ethical. The unidentified young woman was dead, her body cast off like a rag doll on an East Liverpool Road in 1944. She was called the Carnival Girl, but her true name and that of her killer is still a mystery. Author Turzillo will recount these four cases from her Agatha-nominated book, Unsolved Murders & Disappearances in Northeast Ohio using sources and photographs from the cases. Turzillo, a National Federation of Press Women award winner, writes about true crimes in Ohio history. She taught writing and literature at the college level. She holds degrees in Criminal Justice Technology and Mass-Media Communication from The University of Akron. Books will be available for sale and signing at the event.

Leadership for Adolescents

By Carolyn M. Anderson, PhD
Thursday, January 12 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

In Leadership for Adolescents, author Dr. Carolyn M. Anderson offers a step by step guide to help teenagers understand the role of a leader and teach the skills needed for a leadership position. Detailing key characteristics, she discusses the I-in-leader theme, developing a basic understanding of self and of leadership skills, competencies and characteristics one already possesses. The process of assuming a leadership role entails learning, experiencing and continuous growth in skill building. The book provides a foundation that can help teens navigate their academic career and eventual career paths. Dr. Anderson is a professor emeritus of Akron University. Through CMA Communication Consulting, she coaches leaders and small teams and speaks publicly on communication-related topics. Books will be available for sale and signing at the event.
Meet the Author

The Cubicle Chronicles
By Lynn Brookdale
Thursday, January 26 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Bethany Bowers is like most recent college grads: idealistic, underemployed and broke. After leaving her dead-end telemarketing job, Bethany happily accepts a position at a prestigious Pittsburgh recruiting firm. She soon discovers, however, that it’s a corporate world, and she’s just living in it. There’s her obnoxious, self-absorbed boss, his scantily-clad “executive assistant” and a host of other co-workers who give the expression “the inmates are running the asylum,” a whole new meaning. After realizing that life in a cubicle farm isn’t all it’s cracked up to be, Bethany begins to wonder what else the world holds in store for her. With the help of Heidi, her friend and only normal co-worker, Bethany goes on a hilarious and introspective journey of self-discovery. Author Lynn Brookdale was born in Cleveland. She has an early childhood education degree. This satirical work about the daily corporate grind is semi-autobiographical, so you know Brookdale will have entertaining stories to share. Books will be available for sale and signing at the event.

How to Overcome Heartbreak: Recovering from Misguided Love
By Nicole D. Miller
Thursday, February 9 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Have you found yourself nursing a broken heart? Do you wonder when the devastating pain will end? If the pain will end? How to Overcome Heartbreak offers readers hope that pain from a broken relationship does end. Nicole Miller shares her own story about heartbreak, the events that led to it and how she successfully overcame heartbreak and created a new and healthier life for herself. She gives the reader tips on healing and growing spiritually as well as emotionally. With faith, support and love, she shares that you too can overcome the pain of today and bask in the joy of tomorrow. Miller is a savvy businesswoman, holding the office of Treasurer for her local church in Cleveland. She enjoys spending time with loved ones, running and expressing her faith in God through worship in both song and dance. She hopes to share wisdom that heals and help others move forward in their journey of self-discovery. Books will be available for sale and signing at the event.

LAKEWOOD HISTORICAL SOCIETY PROGRAMS

The Rise, Decline and Rebirth of East 4th Street
Presented by Alan Dutka
Wednesday, October 5 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Short in length but long in memories, East 4th Street’s story has mirrored downtown Cleveland’s dynamic rise, decline and rebirth. Once home to Cleveland’s finest theater, two major food markets and numerous five-and-dime stores, 4th Street fell into disrepair in the second half of the twentieth century. Yet, this historic thoroughfare found new life with the help of visionary leaders and today is the center of a chic entertainment and residential district—perhaps the coolest place in Cleveland. Speaker Alan Dutka is the author of several books on some of the most colorful neighborhoods of Cleveland’s past.

Eyewitness to a President’s Assassination
Presented by Paul Landis
Wednesday, October 19 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Where were you on November 22, 1963? Paul Landis was in Dallas and today is one of only two surviving Secret Service agents who witnessed the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. A special agent from 1959 to 1964, his assignments included guarding former President Dwight Eisenhower’s grandchildren in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, the Caroline and John Kennedy, Jr., “Kiddie Detail” and eventually guarding First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy. Landis’s talk will include comparisons of the Secret Service then and now, and of course, his personal experiences and memories of the tragic events of more than half a century ago in Dallas.

Extra! Extra! A History of Cleveland’s Front Pages
Presented by John Vacha
Wednesday, January 11 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

From 1818 to the present, Cleveland has never (well, hardly ever) been without a daily newspaper. John Vacha, an associate editor of the Encyclopedia of Cleveland History, will review the history of journalism in the Forest City. Covered will be such publications as the Cleveland Herald, Cleveland Leader, Cleveland Press, Cleveland News, and of course, the Plain Dealer. It is also the story of writers and editors, including Charles Browne (“Artemus Ward”), Edwin Cowles, Louis B. Seltzer, Connie Schultz and cartoonists Ed Kuekes and Bill Roberts. Next year will mark the bicentennial of Cleveland’s first newspaper, so come and hear all about it!

The Art and Architecture of Lakewood Public Library
Presented by James Crawford
Wednesday, January 25 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Along with the craftsmanship and artwork inside the Library’s books, the buildings themselves are works of art. Library Director James Crawford will discuss the storied architects and their beautifully designed buildings, including Edward R. Tilton, the architect of the original Carnegie library, and Abram Garfield, the son of President James Garfield, who renovated the Madison Branch. Crawford will also touch upon the artistic works that line the walls, such as Reed Thomason’s mural of literary characters, David Deming’s playful Lake and Wood and Richard Haas’s murals inside the grand reading room. Let’s not forget Transversion by Peter Diepenbrock, the 3,000-pound sculpture made of bronze and steel that stands on the northwest lawn of the Main Library.
Weekday Docs:
Bikes vs Cars (2015)
Directed by Fredrik Gertten
Wednesday, September 7 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Activists and cities all over the world are moving towards a new system, but will the economic powers allow it? Bikes vs Cars, a new film project from director Fredrik Gertten, looks into the daily global drama in traffic around the world. Climate change and never-ending gridlocks frustrate people more than ever. Instead of whining, people in cities around the world take on the bicycle as a do-it-yourself solution. Road rage and poor city planning create daily deaths amongst the bicyclists, and now they demand safe lanes. From bike activists in Sao Paulo and Los Angeles, fighting for safe bike lanes, to the city of Copenhagen, where forty percent commute by bike daily, Bikes vs Cars will look at both the struggle for bicyclists in a society dominated by cars, and the revolutionary changes that could take place if more cities moved away from car-centric models. The film will be followed by a discussion featuring representatives from Bike Cleveland, Bike Lakewood, Beat Cycles, Lakewood Police Department and Lakewood City Planning and Development.

Pedaling on the North Coast:
Biking the Streets of Greater Cleveland
By Murray Fishel and Stan Purdum
Thursday, September 8 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Pedaling on the North Coast is your guide to the best routes in the greater Cleveland area. From lakeside rides to trips to Cleveland landmarks like the historic West Side Market, Pedaling on the North Coast is the perfect companion for everyone from the casual cyclist to the seasoned vet. The eighteen rides offer diverse selections to discover Cleveland and the surrounding area: crank over to the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and Cleveland Browns stadium; bike along the famed Emerald Necklace or check out the Cleveland Botanical Gardens and Art Museum. Co-author Murray Fishel is a late arrival to bicycling. He started at age fifty-one, one year before retiring as an Emeritus Professor of Political Science at Kent State University in 1991. Fishel realized that he needed to find a healthy activity that he could enjoy in his retirement. Weekday Film:
The Bicycle Thieves (1948)
Directed by Vittorio De Sica
Wednesday, September 14 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Set in post-WWII Italy, a young father, Antonio, finally gets a job plastering advertisements around Rome. In order to get around, he needs a bicycle, and his wife lets him sell their finest linens to get one. On his first day of work, the bike is stolen. Antonio goes to the police, but there is little they can do. While he searches for the thief who stole the bike, Antonio brings along his son, Bruno. As he comes closer to catching the thief, he gets caught up in a test of his own morals, and Bruno is forced to watch as his father becomes more desperate. Shot on location with no trained actors, The Bicycle Thieves is a classic of Italian neo-realism that portrays the real struggles of working-class Italians after the war.
LEAF Garden Bicycle Tour
Thursday, September 15 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Front Porch
Come and see what’s growing in the Lakewood Earth and Food Community (LEAF) gardens. This group ride will start at the LEAF Community Farmers Market in front of the Main Library and visit the gardens at Webb and Madison Parks. LEAF representatives will be on hand to answer questions and point out the beautiful flowers and bountiful produce that grows in Lakewood.

Bicycle Weekend Wonders
Friday, September 16; Saturday, September 17; and Sunday, September 18
Main Library and Madison Branch
Children’s and Youth Services will host bicycle-themed programs featuring stories, activities, music and crafts. There will also be a bicycle-themed book display and scavenger hunt.

Branch Out: A Social Ride Across Lakewood
Saturday, September 17 at 1:00 p.m.
Madison Branch
This year, we’re celebrating Lakewood Public Library’s centennial, and next, we’ll be celebrating the bicentennial of the invention of the bicycle as we know it. In honor of a great library and the perfect riding machine, we’ll be taking a social ride from the Madison Branch to the Main Library and exploring Lakewood in between. This family-friendly event will be co-sponsored by Bike Lakewood and Bike Cleveland.

Bike Rodeo
Sunday, September 18 at 1:00 p.m.
Madison Park South Parking Lot
Did your child just get a new bike for their birthday and they’re looking a little wobbly? Maybe you’ve taken off their training wheels, and they’re ready to hit the streets. This is the event for any child or teenager who would like to learn some bicycle skills and have some fun. Based on the League of American Bicyclists’ Traffic Skills curriculum, representatives from Ohio City Bicycle Co-op will introduce basic bicycling concepts and bicycle-handling skills. Apart from finding the proper fit for a helmet and checking their bike’s mechanical safety, students will learn the meaning of “yield” and “right of way” and how to look out for those who haven’t! They will also practice steering around obstacles, stopping and starting safely and efficiently and scanning for road hazards and other traffic around them. Representatives from Bike Lakewood and Lakewood Police Department will also be on hand. Registration is required. Call (216) 226-8275 ext. 127 to register.
HOSPITALS, HEALTHCARE AND HEALTH GOALS

HEALTH SERIES

Hospitals, healthcare and health goals are things that each person must deal with eventually. So why not learn about them preemptively? This series brings in local doctors and health care professionals to share their knowledge and professionals from University Hospitals to talk about the history of this hospital system in our region.

Eat Well, Move Well, Think Well
Presented by Dr. Casen DeMaria
Tuesday, September 20 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Learn what habits in your life are most important and explore simple strategies to help reach your health goals and to be able to move well, eat well and think well. Casen DeMaria, Doctor of Chiropractic Medicine, will teach steps that can be immediately applied to change negative patterns. Dr. DeMaria graduated in 2011 from Life University in Atlanta, Georgia. She has co-authored three peer-reviewed studies on topics including weight loss, migraines and Tourette’s syndrome. She practices with her husband and father-in-law in Westlake and Elyria as The Drugless Doctors.

University Hospitals: 150 Years of Caring for Our Community
150 Years of University Hospitals
Presented by Josh Studzinski and Chris Dawson
Thursday, September 22 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

For 150 years, the people of Northeast Ohio have looked to University Hospitals as a trusted health care provider. The hospital’s roots date back to 1866, when civic leaders established a hospital in a small Cleveland home to care for the sick and disabled. From these humble beginnings, University Hospitals has grown into a multihospital system, serving one million people annually. The medical advancements made at University Hospitals touch lives worldwide, yet the hospital remains true to its roots as a community health care provider. Learn more about University Hospitals as it marks 150 years of serving Northeast Ohio. Josh Studzinski has been at University Hospitals for eight and a half years. He is currently in the Marketing and Communications department handling the sponsorships and activations for the system. Lakewood resident Chris Dawson is the Senior Prospect Researcher for the Institutional Relations & Development Department of University Hospitals and is the consulting historian on the University Hospitals 150th anniversary project.

Humanizing Healthcare
Presented by Dr. Georganne Vartorella and Mary Osburn
Thursday, October 6 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Healthcare in the 21st century is constantly changing. Providing people with appropriate care when they need it in a cost effective manner is a consistent challenge for health care providers and administrators. Everyone will be vulnerable to illness at some point in their lives which is why this topic is universal. The days of paternalistic medicine where physicians made all decisions without input from their patients are over. Patients who actively participate in their care in partnership with their health care providers are more likely to have positive outcomes. Dr. Georganne Vartorella, a board certified physician of internal medicine who had a successful independent practice in Lakewood and Mary Osburn, who retired from Lakewood Hospital in 2014 after twenty-eight years, will talk about trends in research, technology and explain ways for patients and their families to navigate the system to maximize their health care experiences.
Do You Have the Right to Privacy?
Presented by Barbara Greenberg, JD

Our right to privacy seems to be changing daily. There is a continuing conflict between the individual right and those of the community for public safety, security, health and welfare. Issues of personal choice are in conflict with the first amendment issues of free speech and religion. The United States Supreme Court has spoken on some issues and others are to be decided in 2016 and beyond. Our four class series will look at the areas of most recent concern—personal and family issues, public health, technology and national security. Decisions from the United States Supreme Court involving these areas and the Bill of Rights which gives us the basis for our right to privacy will also be discussed. Barbara Greenberg is magistrate of Bedford Municipal Court and Cuyahoga County Juvenile Court.

The Right to Privacy
Tuesday, September 27 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Where does it come from and when do we have it? Topics will include a review of the Bill of Rights focused on this area, a discussion of the personal rights and the conflict between the individual and the community and the beginning of the conversation about personal privacy.

Personal Privacy
Tuesday, October 4 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Does the government get to interfere in personal privacy? Topics will include controversial issues of gene mapping, right to life, right to die, marriage partners and religion versus discrimination in business practices.

Public Health and Safety
Tuesday, October 18 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
When does the good of the community override the individual choice? Topics will include to vaccinate or not, disease control, recall issues on food and public products and medical/drug/pharmaceutical availability and costs.

Technology
Tuesday, October 25 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Is technology better or worse as we get better at it? Topics include cell phone privacy, social media, national security and surveillance issues.

Climate Change: Past, Present and Future
Presented by Beverly Saylor, PhD
Repeatedly over Earth’s history, geological, biological and astronomical events have driven global climate to extremes and yet, across the eons, Earth’s long-term temperature has remained remarkably stable, within the narrow range necessary to maintain life. What is the history of Earth’s climate? How fast can it change? What processes destabilize it and bring it back to balance? How do we read Earth’s climate record, and how do these ancient, natural changes compare to the changes wrought by human activity today? What is the significance of these changes as we make choices about the future?

Beverly Saylor is an Associate Professor of Geology at Case Western Reserve University. She studies sediments and sedimentary rocks that accumulated on land, in lakes, rivers and oceans, as a historical record of environmental change ranging from one billion years ago to the present. She also studies these rock layers as vessels for fluids, including water, oil and natural gas and, potentially, greenhouse gases.

Climate Models
Tuesday, November 8 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Climate models simulate the transfer of energy from the sun, its distribution as heat through the oceans, land and atmosphere and its radiation back to space. As such they permit us to assess the mechanisms that have altered climate in the past and to project responses to future action. But how do climate models work? And why should we trust them? In this presentation we will discuss the history of climate models from Ptolemy to the modern Global Circulation Model.

Reading the Record
Tuesday, November 15 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Satellites and temperature gauges are critical to measuring current global warming, but to really understand the magnitude, rate and mechanisms of climate change, we need records that go much farther back in time. These records allow us to explore questions about the links between climatic, tectonic, oceanographic and biological processes. How do we measure temperature hundreds, thousands or millions of years ago? How can we reconstruct climate and its interactions millions or hundreds of millions of years ago?

Changing the Future
Tuesday, November 29 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
The evidence is clear. The more carbon dioxide the atmosphere contains the more heat it traps. We must not burn all our fossil fuels and release their trapped greenhouse gases to the atmosphere. The consequences would be severe. The Paris Accords mark a promising beginning, and the end goal is clear, but the path to a carbon-free economy requires value-laden choices, sacrifices, new technologies and new understanding of how to foster change. We’ll discuss where we stand and ways to move forward.

Lakewood Reads: Field Notes from a Catastrophe
By Elizabeth Kolber
Wednesday, October 26 from 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Children’s and Youth Services will host a book discussion for this year’s Lakewood Reads. Lakewood High School’s 2016 summer reading selection is a 2006 non-fiction book by Elizabeth Kolbert, Field Notes from a Catastrophe: Man, Nature, and Climate Change, that attempts to highlight the causes and effects of global climate change. Lakewood High School will host a community discussion of the book—including the results of work done by students in math, science and other classes.
Sunday Docs: Containment (2015)
Directed by Peter Galison and Robb Moss
Sunday, October 30 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Left over from the Cold War are a hundred million gallons of radioactive sludge, thousands of acres of radioactive land, tens of thousands of unused hot buildings, all above slowly spreading deltas of contaminated ground water. Governments around the world, desperate to protect future generations, have begun imagining society 10,000 years from now in order to create monuments that will speak across time. Part graphic novel and part observational essay, Containment weaves between an uneasy present and an imaginative, troubled far future, exploring the idea that over millennia, nothing stays put. Filmed in weapon plants in the U.S., at Fukushima and in a waste storage facility deep underground, Containment is the second film by Harvard University Professors Peter Galison and Robb Moss. In it they ask us, can we contain some of the deadliest and most long-lasting substances ever produced?

Weekday Docs: Cowspiracy (2014)
Directed by Kip Andersen and Keegan Kuhn
Wednesday, November 2 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Animal agriculture is the leading cause of deforestation, water consumption and pollution, is responsible for more greenhouse gases than the transportation industry and is a primary driver of rainforest destruction, species extinction, habitat loss, topsoil erosion, ocean “dead zones” and virtually every other environmental ill. Yet it goes on, almost entirely unchallenged. As filmmaker Kip Andersen approaches leaders in the environmental movement, he increasingly uncovers what appears to be an intentional refusal to discuss the issue of animal agriculture, while industry whistleblowers and watchdogs warn him of the risks to his freedom and even his life if he dares to persist. As eye-opening as Blackfish and as inspiring as An Inconvenient Truth, this shocking yet humorous documentary reveals the absolutely devastating environmental impact large-scale factory farming has on our planet and offers a path to global sustainability for a growing population.

A Most Wicked Problem: Climate Change Science and Moral Responsibility
Presented by David Beach
Thursday, November 3 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Planners talk about “wicked problems” that defy simple solutions. Climate change may be the most wicked problem of all. It poses an existential threat to human civilization, yet political change to reduce greenhouse gas emissions remains difficult to achieve. How can we live up to our moral responsibility—as individuals and as citizens working together—to address this issue? David Beach, director of GreenCityBlueLake Institute of the Cleveland Museum of Natural History, will explore this in depth.

Sunday Docs: Earth, Water, Woman (2013)
Directed by Sarah Feinbloom and Alexandra Swati Guild
Sunday, November 27 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Three decades ago, Akilah Jaramogi settled on a barren, deforested hillside in Trinidad and Tobago, blighted by floods in the rainy season and fires in the dry season. Together with her late husband, Tacuma, they started a family and reforested over 125 acres, restoring health to the hills and the watershed just outside the capital city of Port-of-Spain. Earth, Water, Woman tells the inspiring story of a sustainable agro-forestry community led by Akilah called Fondes Amandes. When her husband died, Akilah continued their great work, initiating the Fondes Amandes Community Reforestation Project. Today Fondes Amandes is a thriving village atop a flourishing forest where residents have planted over 60,000 seedlings over the past thirty years. The community is regularly visited by foreign dignitaries and Akilah is heralded as the Wangari Maathai of Trinidad and Tobago. Earth, Water, Woman deepens viewers’ understanding of the ways that water, the fundamental source of life, flows between us and connects us all.
Poetry Series
This interactive series will give poets of all ages, experience levels and varying interest levels the opportunity to explore poetry. Using all of the senses that make poetry a unique art form, you will listen to works presented by seasoned poets, then you will create your own poetry and finally you will have a chance to share it with others during our dynamic open mic night. Come for one evening or all three. You are certain to walk away feeling inspired.

Local Poetry Reading
Presented by Cleveland State University Poetry Center
Tuesday, December 6 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
The Cleveland State University Poetry Center was established in 1962. In 1971, it expanded its mission to become a national non-profit independent press under the auspices of the Cleveland State University Department of English and has since published diverse collections of contemporary poetry and prose by established and emerging authors. Come and hear engaging poetry from some of their talented authors.

Poetry Workshop
Led by Kisha Nicole Foster
Tuesday, December 13 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Multipurpose Room
The evening will start by getting inspired by writing free verse poetry and leafing through some of the Library’s poetry collection. Once things get moving, attendees will tackle the Sestina, a challenging yet entertaining form of poetry that consists of six six-line stanzas and a three-line envoi. Any poetry created during the workshop that attendees would like to share will be displayed in the Library. This workshop will be facilitated by the nominee of the Cleveland Arts prize Kisha Nicole Foster a poet, educator, coach and mentor from Cleveland.

Open Mic Night
Hosted by Eric Odum
Tuesday, December 20 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Open mic nights are a great place to hear amazing artists showcase their work or a perfect stepping stone to introducing your own writing. Whether you are an experienced performer or a curious novice, our welcoming host Eric Odum will make you feel right at home. This event is intergenerational and strongly encourages creative spirits of all ages to share their poetry and prose! The open mic will be followed by a performance by Lakewood Public Library’s own Zena Smith, who will be reading from her most recent book, Fracture.

Bill Knittel, Lakewood Poet Laureate, wrote this poem to celebrate the Library’s centennial.

Yours and Mine
Nineteen sixteen, the nineteenth of May,
It truly was a special day,
Now a hundred years later, come blow your horn,
For on that day a leader was born;
Lakewood Public Library started in a store,
Today it guides us, and so much more,
About ten thousand books is what we had then,
Now over half a million items, we have to lend;
The Library today with its latest additions,
Is modern and classy, but still keeps with traditions,
And almost anything to read you will find on our shelves
Films, concerts, lectures, children's stories with elves;
Just a walk through our building and your eyes will digest,
A journey, of Lakewood history, our growth and our zest,
Two convenient locations, plus people pleasing hours,
Come enjoy our celebration, take the time to smell the flowers;
We are truly part of Lakewood,
And that makes us very proud,
We’re like an educated family,
Lots of grace and class and loud;
Loud because we’re happy,
For the past one hundred years,
We want to shout it from the roof tops,
With laughter and with tears;
You are part of Lakewood Public Library,
And we just wanted you to know,
We are a five star “Library Journal” winner,
Watch us closely, watch us grow;
Once again we want to thank you,
For your patronage, your time,
Lakewood Public Library is a winner
It is yours and it is mine.
The Rebellion of Poets and Playwrights
100 Years since the Easter Rising
Presented by Claire Culleton, PhD
Thursday, November 17 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

William Butler Yeats penned “Easter, 1916” in London, far removed from the actions and events of the 1916 Easter Rising as they unfolded. Some of the key players of the 1916 Easter Rising, which eventually led to Irish independence, were poets and playwrights. This presentation will cover the events of the Easter Rebellion, as well as the key role Irish literature played in the rise of Irish Nationalism. Claire Culleton is a professor of English at Kent State University. She teaches classes about the editing and publishing industry in which she is involved as a general editor for Palgrave Macmillan’s book series: New Directions in Irish and Irish American Literature. In addition she is an author of four published works. These works are all related to her other field of expertise, Irish and Irish American Literature, with a particular interest in the author James Joyce.

Distance Learning:
America Enduring
Presented by the Cleveland Museum of Art
Wednesday, December 14 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

The Cleveland Museum of Art’s award-winning distance learning program connects Library patrons with the museum to enrich their study of history, languages, science, math and the visual arts. Through live videoconferencing, described as an interactive PBS show, students view art and artifacts from around the world while sharing in two-way conversations with museum educators. The Distance Learning program has been recognized with the highest awards in its field: the CILC Pinnacle Award and the Teachers’ Choice award. In “America Enduring,” patrons will explore the period from 1913, three years before the Library’s founding, to 1945, an era that includes unprecedented prosperity, the Great Depression, social and political change during the interwar period and the artistic reaction to European influence: regionalism.

Art to Go: Artists of Our Region
Presented by the Cleveland Museum of Art
Wednesday, December 7 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Multipurpose Room

Cleveland Museum of Art staff and trained volunteers will visit the Library with genuine art objects from the museum’s collection. Patrons will be introduced to 20th-century artists who studied and worked at local cultural institutions, schools and production workshops. The Cleveland Institute of Art, Karamu House, Huntington Polytechnic and Cowan Pottery Studio, among others will be the basis of the patrons’ understanding of local arts movements and their importance to the community then and now. These interactive sessions offer a unique hands-on experience, engaging learners of all ages in exciting exploration and lively discussion about diverse cultures, time periods, materials, and techniques. With supervision and wearing gloves, participants are able to handle actual art objects comprising varied media including ceramics, textiles, prints, carved wood and stone and cast metals. Registration is required. Call (216) 226-8275 ext. 127 to register.

R. Guy Cowan in Lakewood and Beyond
Presented by Lauren Hansgen
Wednesday, December 21 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Cowan Pottery is a distinctive form of American art pottery that was produced first in Lakewood from 1912 to 1917 and then in Rocky River from 1920 to 1931. It was the only art pottery in Northeast Ohio and, during its heyday, was recognized as one of the leading potteries of the nation. Born in 1884 into a family of potters in East Liverpool, Ohio, R. Guy Cowan moved to Cleveland in 1908, and the same year, he founded a pottery studio in a barn at Euclid and E. 107th St. In 1913, he relocated the studio to Nicholson Avenue in Lakewood, where you can now find a plaque in his honor. After serving in the military, he moved to Rocky River. There, his company grew to the point where he was able to employ thirty-five people and make upwards of 175,000 pieces a year. Lauren Hansgen, curator of the Cowan Pottery Museum at Rocky River Public Library, will speak on the history of Cowan, including its Lakewood beginnings.
WOMEN IN STEM SERIES

STEM stands for science, technology, engineering and mathematics. This series features women who work in STEM related fields. You may not picture women when you think of STEM careers, but this series will change that image. Come and learn about the opportunities STEM education can provide for everyone.

STEM: Definitions and Opportunities
Presented by Debbie K. Jackson, PhD
Tuesday, January 10 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
The acronym STEM stands for science, technology, engineering and mathematics. For a short word it covers a lot of subjects. This presentation will include various definitions of STEM and emphasize its inclusive nature, so that you can understand just what STEM means and how it can help the students in our community. The presentation will also include the many varied opportunities that STEM education includes and the access it provides for students in K-12. Dr. Debbie K. Jackson is an associate professor in the College of Education and Human Services at Cleveland State University. Dr. Jackson taught chemistry, physics and physical science before beginning her career. Dr. Jackson serves as the faculty liaison to the MC2STEM High School, the director of Cleveland State University’s STEM Education Center and the director of the Northeast Ohio hub of the Ohio STEM Learning Network.

Alternative Careers in STEM
Presented by Mary Rouse
Tuesday, January 17 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Often, people think of a scientist as someone with a PhD who works in a lab, mixing up chemicals and using a microscope. There are actually a lot of ways to have a career in science. Rouse recaps her educational and professional experiences in science education and public health. Topics include career planning, job searches and career opportunities in museums. Mary Rouse has been the Manager of Public Programs at the Cleveland Museum of Natural History since January 2013. She has over twenty years of experience in education and programming, most recently as the Associate Director for Women in Science and Engineering at Case Western Reserve University. She also has experience as a classroom teacher, epidemiologist and program manager. She is passionate about STEM education and particularly focused on reaching typically under-served audiences. Mary earned a Master of Public Health (M.P.H) and Bachelor of Science in Education from the Ohio State University.

Women in STEM and NASA
Presented by Sheila Bailey, PhD
Tuesday, January 24 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
NASA has an interest in encouraging everyone to pursue a STEM education, especially women and minorities. This presentation focuses on a number of women at NASA, their jobs and their backgrounds. Sheila Bailey, who has a PhD in condensed matter physics from the University of Manchester in England, will share her personal story, one that says you don’t have to give up having a family to have a career. She will discuss careers in science and engineering. Dr. Bailey has worked in space photovoltaics at NASA Glenn Research Center (GRC) for thirty one years. She is the recipient of the faculty excellence award from Baldwin Wallace College and the Federal Women’s Program award. She was inducted into the Ohio Women’s Hall of Fame in 2003 by Governor Bob Taft.
Chinese New Year Dancers
Saturday, January 28 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

With over fifteen years of performance experience in Cleveland, Yin Tang Dance will bring the historical songs and legends of the Chinese New Year to the Library. Classical Chinese dances are styled after ancient forms of dances that emulate the movements of goddesses. The focus is not only technique but Chinese cultural, historical and geographical education. Students perform dance styles from different regions of China, as each of these regions holds deep cultural roots and a unique local color. Yin Tang is Cleveland’s premier Chinese choreographer and dance director. She began learning dance at the age of three from her mother who was professionally trained in classical Chinese dance. During summer vacations in high school and college, she traveled back to China to train with instructors from professional schools in Chongqing, where she continues to travel to learn new techniques.

A Fort of Nine Towers:
An Afghan Family Story by Qais Akbar Omar

Literature Series Presented by Barbara Parr
Wednesdays, February 1, 8, 15 and 22 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Multipurpose Room

Qais Omar, a young Afghan writer, born in 1982 writes a riveting memoir of his family’s experiences in Afghanistan. Kabul was a garden where seven-year-old Qais flew kites from the roof of his grandfather’s house. Then came the hollow sounds of rocket fire as the Mujahedin took over Afghanistan, and the country erupted in civil war. Omar’s family fled, first taking shelter in an old fort. They end up moving from place to place all over Afghanistan. Their experiences, while incredibly challenging, allow the reader to have a look at the beautiful and amazing culture of the Afghan people, including the nomadic life that some of Omar’s relatives love. This is a stunning coming-of-age memoir. Omar offers a moving recollection of these events—a story of daily hardships. The Afghani culture told through the folktales and poetic voice of Omar will be the primary focus of this free, four week course presented by Barbara Parr, an instructor with Case Western Reserve University’s Laura and Alvin Siegal Lifelong Learning Program. Registration is required. Register online at www.lifelonglearningcleveland.org or call (216) 226-8275 ext. 127 to register.

Weekday Docs: Salam Neighbor (2015)

Directed by Zach Ingrasci and Chris Temple
Tuesday, February 7 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Presented by The Refugee Response

This is a critical moment. There are more refugees today than any time in the last century. More than 4.8 million people have fled Syria alone. Right now, we are at risk of losing a generation of youth, further destabilizing the region and perpetuating a cycle of violence and poverty. In an effort to better understand refugee life, filmmakers Zach Ingrasci and Chris Temple spent one month living alongside displaced families in the Za’atari refugee camp. As the first filmmakers ever allowed by the United Nations to be given a tent and registered inside a refugee camp, Zach and Chris were able to get a never before seen look into the world’s most pressing crisis. Salam Neighbor is an award-winning feature documentary and campaign to connect the world to refugees. Their goal is to tell the stories of refugees with the dignity they deserve and the depth the world needs. This film is presented by The Refugee Response, an organization that empowers refugees in Northeast Ohio to become self-sufficient and contributing members of their new communities.
Ney Instrument
Presented by the Turkish American Society of Ohio - Cleveland
Tuesday, February 21 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

The nay instrument, sometimes spelled nai or nay, is one of the oldest forms of flute. It has relatives in other Middle Eastern countries, each differing by the number of holes, segments and whether it has a mouthpiece, called a bashpare, or not. The Turkish nay has seven holes—six finger holes and one thumb hole—nine segments and a bashpare. Neyss, along with the tanbúr lute and kemençe fiddle, are the most common instruments in Turkish classical music. Come and enjoy the sounds of this ancient instrument as the Turkish Cultural Center hosts a nay player, or nayzen, who will give a presentation and performance.

Call to Prayer
Presented by Murat Gurer
Tuesday, February 28 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

According to the tenets of Islam, Muslims perform the salaah, or prayer ritual, five times per day. Throughout the streets of Turkey, and other countries with Muslim populations, you can hear the trilling call, also known as ezan, of the muezzin, the man who calls the prayer, coming from the mosques. Murat Gurer, executive director of the Turkish American Society of Ohio, will explain the tradition of the call to prayer, including its history, the melody and the requirements it entails each muezzin to perform.

Distance Learning: Form, Function and Faith
Presented by Cleveland Museum of Art
Wednesday, February 15 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

This program from the Cleveland Museum of Art explores the relationship between building form and function by focusing on three Cleveland-area historic houses of worship: Saint Theodosius, a Russian Orthodox Church; Temple-Tifereth Israel, a synagogue; and the Kirtland Temple, a 19th-century Community of Christ (Latter Day Saints) Church. Themes such as architectural history and the use of geometry in planning these sacred spaces assist in understanding how these buildings compare in their design. This program was co-developed by the Cleveland Museum of Art, Cleveland State University’s Center for Sacred Landmarks, the American Institute of Architects (Cleveland Chapter) and the Lake County Educational Service Center.

Sunday Docs: A Sinner in Mecca (2015)
Directed by Parvez Sharma
Sunday, February 19 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

For a gay filmmaker, filming in Saudi Arabia presents two serious challenges: filming is forbidden in the country and homosexuality is punishable by death. For Parvez Sharma, however, these were risks he had to take as he embarked on his Hajj pilgrimage, a journey considered the greatest accomplishment and aspiration within his religion, Islam. On the tenth anniversary of the September 11th attacks, Parvez left his home in New York, the Mecca of freedom, to join peace-loving pilgrims and brutal jihadists to fulfill a lifelong calling. On his journey, Parvez aims to look beyond 21st century Islam’s crises of religious extremism, commercialism and sectarian battles. The Washington Post called A Sinner in Mecca “revelatory.”
Judaism and...

Presented by Rabbi Enid Lader

Rabbi Enid Lader became Rabbi of Beth Israel - The West Temple on August 1, 2012. Prior to taking that role, she served for ten years as the spiritual leader and Rabbi for Knesseth Israel Temple in Wooster. During that time, she studied at the Academy of Jewish Religion in New York and was ordained on May 13, 2010. A Florida native, Rabbi Enid and her husband live in Lakewood.

...the Environment
Thursday, February 16 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Judaism emphasizes our need to preserve our natural resources and generate new ones for future generations. The Jewish concept of b'altashchit, “do not destroy,” forbids needless destruction. We are encouraged l'vadul’shamrah, “to till and to tend,” to become the Earth’s stewards. Sources from the Bible and rabbinic teachings will inform our discussion on our concerns about climate change, clean water and environmental health.

...Particularism and Universalism
Thursday, February 23 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Through the lens of the Siddur—the Jewish prayer book, we will explore the historical development of how Judaism has (and does) balance between particularism and universalism. Prayers for the individual and community, for the Jewish community and the larger community will point to a practical understanding of what is means to be Jewish in a gentile world.
MORE PROGRAMMING

The Turbulent Decade of the 60s
Presented by Dr. Joel Keller
Tuesdays, September 6, 13, 20 and 27 from 1:00 p.m. to 2:00 p.m.
Kathleen and Robert Lawther Center (Senior Center West), 16024 Madison Ave.
The City of Lakewood, Department of Human Services and the Division of Aging are pleased to offer a multimedia examination on the music and art of the 1960s. Led by Dr. Joel Keller, the course will also look at other cultural expressions of this time period including the impact of the baby-boomer generation, women’s rights, the civil-rights movement and the anti-war movement. He will touch on domestic and international political developments, as well as scientific advances. Keller, a teacher at Cuyahoga Community College and Lorain County Community College, earned his BA from McGill University in Montreal and a Doctor of Podiatric Medicine from the California College of Podiatric Medicine. There are no age restrictions to attend these free lectures, but registration is required. Call the Lakewood Division of Aging Activities office at (216) 529-5005 to register.

No, You Can’t Touch That Nest! Or Can You?
100 Years since the Migratory Bird Treaty
Presented by Jim Tomko
Tuesday, September 13 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
A hundred years ago the first draft of the Migratory Bird Treaty Act was written, and with it, close to a thousand species of birds were protected from people. Jim Tomko, president of the Audubon Society of Greater Cleveland, will discuss the interesting history of this federal law and how it affects you and your backyard wildlife. Hear what inspired the formation of the National Audubon Society and what our local chapter is doing to help protect birds and other wildlife.

Weekday Docs: Food Patriots (2014)
Directed by Jeff Spitz
Presented by LEAF
Tuesday, November 22 at 7:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
A Midwestern mother whose son nearly died from contaminated food embarks on a rollercoaster journey to understand the food industry and improve her family’s eating habits. Surprising, funny and poignant, this personal film unfolds from one family’s story into a powerful consumer movement. Food Patriots features food advocates from all walks of life who are trying to hatch a revolution to change the way Americans eat and buy food and educate the next generation of consumers.

LEAF Community Farmers’ Market
Thursday Nights at 5:30 p.m.
Main Library Front Porch
Continuing Through the Harvest
Bring the whole family and join your neighbors on the Library’s Front Porch to pick up your locally farmed produce and enjoy the labors of local craftspersons. The Lakewood Earth and Food Community (LEAF) was created by local volunteers to bring community gardening, community supported agriculture, soil building and bulk buying to Lakewood. Their goal is to develop a more sustainable, healthful and economically viable community with fresh local food, knowledge, culture and positive people. To learn more about community garden plots, community supported agriculture pick-up programs, educational opportunities for the whole family and more, visit www.leafcommunity.org.
Sometimes a worn out old ball park can be more beloved by the community than the teams that play there. As America’s passion for professional sports shows no sign of fading away, it is difficult to argue against the idea that we need to build arenas, coliseums, stadiums and parks to hold popular civic events. Likewise, as these massive public heritages accumulate decades of history and become seared in our hearts through hundreds of anecdotes, it seems foolish to argue that they should not be maintained and kept safe for our continued enjoyment. But who should pay for the construction and maintenance of these public places? When do we tear down and start from scratch? When do we preserve what is sacred? What about our taxes? These questions and more will be presented by Pete Krouse, a member of the Plain Dealer’s editorial board, to a distinguished panel of experts—the lineup of which will be announced closer to game day.

A SERIES FOR PARENTS

Math Success

Presented by Peter Petto

Wedgesdays, November 9 and 30 and Thursday, December 8 at 7:00 p.m.

Main Library Auditorium

Many students struggle with math. This is a shame because success at math helps students succeed in other subjects and helps them succeed outside school as well. Come get advice, tips and tricks from teachers from Lakewood’s elementary, middle and high schools that will help your student succeed at math, school and beyond. Each part focuses on the title subjects, but there will be a question and answer period at the end of each. These programs will help parents help their struggling students, as well as help parents help their successful students develop excellence. The series features three one-hour sessions: “Finding Math Help for Your Children (Tutors, Online and More),” “How to Help Your Children with Their Math Homework” and “Family Fun That Will Also Develop and Strengthen Math Intuition.”

The Past, Present and Future of Space Innovation in Ohio

75 Years of the Glenn Research Center

Presented by Jeff Woytach

Wednesday, November 16 at 7:00 p.m.

Main Library Auditorium

The Glenn Research Center, one of the three original NASA Centers, actually began as an aircraft flight propulsion laboratory in 1941, before NASA even existed. This presentation celebrates Glenn’s 75th anniversary by highlighting the contributions made in aircraft flight propulsion research, the contribution to the fledgling NASA, the continued critical work that happens daily at Glenn Research Center and how that work will carry the Center into the future. Jeff Woytach, originally from Scranton, Pennsylvania, earned a Bachelor of Science in Aerospace Engineering from the Pennsylvania State University in May 1983. He joined the staff of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration’s Glenn Research Center in June 1983. He has worked on space missions launched on the Space Shuttle and the Atlas/Centaur launch vehicle, and on flight hardware for the International Space Station while at NASA Glenn Research Center.
OTHER ANNIVERSARIES

100 Years of Cleveland Heights-University Heights Public Library

Although the board of trustees had been in place since 1916, due to delays caused by World War I, the Cleveland Heights Public Library officially opened in 1921. The original location was housed in the basement of Coventry Elementary School. As a school district library, it was closely linked to the educational needs of the area, and within two years four branches opened in the city’s schools.

In 1965, after the school district changed its name to Cleveland Heights-University Heights City Schools, the Library did too, and in 1968, the new main library was built on Lee Road. It was expanded to 64,000 square feet in 1977. The system currently has four branches—Coventry Village, Lee Road, Noble Neighborhood and University Heights—and houses the Dobama Theater.

The Cleveland Heights-University Heights Public Library continues to be recognized as being among the best public libraries in the nation and has received a prestigious five-star rating from Library Journal.

100 Years Since the Easter Rising

The Easter Rising of 1916 was the six day rebellion of Irish nationalists against British colonial rule in Ireland. It began on April 24, 1916, Easter Monday of that year, giving the rebellion its name. The Irish nationalists seized control of several key government buildings in Dublin but eventually were overcome by the British soldiers. The rebel leaders were executed and England maintained their rule in Ireland.

Over time the leaders of the rebellion came to be seen as martyrs for the Irish cause. The growing popularity for Irish Independence led to a treaty in 1922 that created the Irish Free State, which was the predecessor for the current Republic of Ireland.

To learn more about the Easter Rising please join us on Thursday, November 17 at 7:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium.

100 Years of the Cleveland Call & Post Newspaper

The Call & Post has long been Cleveland’s leading African American newspaper. After the merger of two dailies in 1927, the Call & Post struggled for five years until being bought by a black businessman from Baltimore named William Otis “W.O.” Walker. Within a few years, Walker acquired a majority stake in the newspaper and expanded the scope of its content and readership.

The Call & Post highlighted the religious and social news of the African-American community, but it was criticized for sensationalism, especially in its depiction of violence on the front cover. However, Walker, a republican, generally favored conservative national issues, and he often fought for causes that would benefit the black community, like boycotting McDonald’s Restaurant until they would grant franchises to black owners. The newspaper often supported black democrats, including Carl Stokes for mayor.

Learn more about Cleveland’s black news leader at callandpost.com.
100 Years of the Cleveland Cultural Gardens

The Cleveland Cultural Gardens started in 1916, at the dedication of the Shakespeare Garden, when Leo Weidenthal, editor and publisher of the Jewish Independent, had the idea of creating similar sites to represent each of the city’s many nationalities. Located in Rockefeller Park, the gardens grew from two in 1926 to fifteen by the end of the 1930s. They include Hebrew, Italian, German, Lithuanian, Slovak, Ukrainian, Polish, Hungarian, Czech, Yugoslav, American, Irish, Greek, Syrian, Romanian, Estonian, African-American, Chinese, Finnish and Indian gardens.

During the 1960s and 70s, the gardens were vandalized and some statues were stored to keep them safe. The 1980s brought a restructuring that enabled rehabilitations in the gardens. Each year, thousands of attendees celebrate One World Day at the gardens.

100 Years of the Cleveland Museum of Art

The institution itself was founded in 1913 “for the benefit of all the people forever,” but the public building did not open its doors until the spring of 1916, just a few weeks after the Lakewood Public Library began lending books.

Its creation was made possible by Cleveland industrialists Hinman B. Hurlbut, John Huntington and Horace Kelley, all of whom bequeathed money specifically for an art museum, as well as by Jeptha H. Wade II, whose Wade Park property was donated for the site. The original neoclassic building of white Georgian marble was designed by the Cleveland firm of Hubbell & Benes and was constructed at a cost of $1.25 million. Located north of the Wade Lagoon, it forms the focus of the city’s Fine Arts Garden.

Frederic Allen Whiting was the museum’s first director from 1913 to 1930. An authority on handicrafts, he believed in the museum as an educational institution. Under his leadership, the museum established the education department and a wide variety of programs for children and adults, including lectures at the Lakewood Public Library.

Families are invited to CMA’s Second Sunday event on Sunday, December 11 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Cleveland Museum of Art. This event features free art-making activities and programs for all ages. Library staff will be on hand to assist and Library patrons will have special perks.

See the More Programming section for more collaborations with the Cleveland Museum of Art.

100 Years Since the Migratory Bird Treaty

First signed in 1916 between the United States and Great Britain (who did the treaty-signing for Canada back then), the Migratory Bird Treaty made it, “unlawful to pursue, hunt, take, capture, kill, possess, sell, purchase, barter, import, export, or transport any migratory bird, or any part, nest, or egg of any such bird, unless authorized under a permit.” It was the first major victory of the National Audubon Society and arguably the most impactful, having saved millions, if not billions of birds from human plunder.

Over the years, Mexico, Japan and Russia joined the treaty and expanded the geographic reach of its common sense. The most obvious beneficiary has been the Snowy Egret. Once nearly hunted to extinction for its lovely, delicate feathers, the species now flourishes in such numbers that its extinction risk is listed as one of, “least concern.”

To learn more about the Migratory Bird Treaty please join us on Tuesday, September 13 at 7:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium.
150 Years of Sherwin-Williams Company
Sherwin-Williams Co., one of Cleveland’s Fortune 500 companies, was established in 1866. Henry A. Sherwin, who came to Cleveland from Vermont in 1860, worked as a bookkeeper in a number of businesses before investing in Truman Dunham & Co., a home decorating supplier. Before long, Sherwin partnered with Alanson T. Osborn and Edward P. Williams to take over Truman Dunham’s retail operations. In 1873, Sherwin-Williams & Co. bought a factory on Canal Street and two years later, started to manufacture ready-mixed paint, which revolutionized the industry.

In the 1970s, the company saw a downturn due to competition and materials’ costs. John G. Breen, the company’s president and CEO from 1979 until 1999, brought the company back to its glory through more acquisitions, including Dutch Boy, Krylon and Thompson Minwax, and by 2002, the company saw revenues of over five billion dollars. Sherwin-Williams Co.’s corporate headquarters are located at 101 W Prospect Ave., Cleveland, where they’ve been since 1930.

150 Years of University Hospitals
In 1866, the Wilson Street Hospital was opened by the Cleveland City Hospital Society, an outcropping of the Ladies Aid Society of the First Presbyterian Church, which helped refugees after the civil war. The hospital started in a house, and it soon outgrew its location and moved to the Marine Hospital facility on East 9th Street and Lakeside Avenue. Later, this hospital was named Lakeside, and students from Western Reserve University were trained there.

University Hospitals of Cleveland was formally established in 1925. Over the next few years, it absorbed Maternity Home, which opened in 1891, and Rainbow Hospital for Crippled and Convalescent Children, which formed out of Rainbow Cottage, a hospital established by the Rainbow Circle of King’s Daughters in 1891. With these mergers, new facilities were built in University Circle.

Over the decades, University Hospitals established itself as a leader in care and research in many different areas, including elder care, cystic fibrosis and cancer.

To learn more about University Hospitals please join us on Thursday, September 22 at 7:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium.

75 Years of the Glenn Research Center
Before NASA existed, the Glenn Research Center was established as a research center for aviation. The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics (NACA) fostered not only American aviation, but also major research projects during WWII. In 1944, an altitude wind tunnel was built at the center, allowing engine makers, such as General Electric and Westinghouse, to test their jet engines.

When the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) was established in 1958, the NACA fell under their umbrella, and the Glenn Research Center was used to develop projects such as liquid hydrogen and launch vehicles that would later allow a man to land on the moon.

In 1999, the center was renamed NASA John H. Glenn Research Center at Lewis Field in honor of the Ohio Senator who was the first American astronaut to orbit Earth.

To learn more about the Glenn Research Center and its storied past please join us on Wednesday, November 16 at 7:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium.
50 Years of Virginia Marti College of Art and Design

Virginia Marti College of Art and Design started in 1966 by fashion expert Virginia Marti Veith. Veith’s father owned a fur shop in Cleveland. She went on to study fashion in New York City and Paris before moving back to the U.S. and opening a bridal salon. When Veith couldn’t find any qualified helpers for her shop, she decided to train them. Five students attended her first class and by 1970, the associate degree program was established for fashion design. The college grew over the years to include fashion merchandising, interior design and graphic design programs. In 1985, the college moved to its current location in Lakewood.

Veith stepped down as president in 2015. Under its new president, Milan Milasinovic, VMCAD plans to accommodate the needs of the macro-digital world.

Learn more about Lakewood’s fashion institute at vmcad.edu.

30 Years of the Cinematheque

The Cinematheque is Cleveland’s hub for independent, foreign and classic films. Founded by film buffs John Ewing, George Gund and Ron Holloway in 1984, the Cinematheque opened with a screening of Bertrand Tavernier’s A Week’s Vacation in Case Western Reserve University’s Strosacker Auditorium. It moved to a permanent location in 1986 at the Aitken Auditorium of the Cleveland Institute of Art.

Ewing, who has programmed films in Ohio since 1973 and continues to do so at the Cinematheque, was named a Chevalier (knight) of the Order of Arts and Letters of the Republic of France in 2010. In August 2015, the Cinematheque moved to the state-of-the-art Peter B. Lewis Theater on Euclid Avenue in the George Gund Building, where it shows movies fifty weekends a year. According to The New York Times, the Cinematheque is one of the country’s best repertory movie theaters.

Lakewood Public Library Day at the Cinematheque is September 25, 2016. Moviegoers who present their Library card can pay the Cinematheque member price for any of the films that day. Titles and showtimes are available at cia.edu/cinematheque.
SUNDAY WITH THE FRIENDS

Who are the Friends of Lakewood Public Library?

Originally brought together by a determination to keep good books from going into the trash, this volunteer group has become an essential part of Lakewood’s way of life, supporting the Library with materials, programming and service since 1980.

Donations of old books, magazines and movies are welcome every day of the year. While some of these materials make their way into the Library’s collection, most items end up being sold at the Friends’ seasonal book sales. The proceeds are used to sponsor free adult programs, lectures, concerts and films at the Library and to pay for crucial materials like this Program Guide and the van used to deliver books to classrooms and to patrons who are unable to leave their homes.

Join the Friends and receive entrance to special, members-only preview sales on Thursday, October 6 and Thursday, December 1 from 6:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. Memberships may be purchased at the door for as little as $2.00.

Great Lakes Light Opera

Sunday, September 11 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

We’ve all heard of dueling pianos—but what about dueling sopranos? Great Lakes Light Opera presents “Mostly Mozart: Diva Edition,” the most epic sing-off since Mozart was in his prime. The opera company’s mission is to perform unique operas and pique the interest of the community—from the seasoned opera-goer to those with no prior exposure to classical music. Great Lakes Light Opera mines Cleveland’s rich creative community to find artists and musicians who are committed to demystifying and revitalizing the traditional art music scene. Recently, they presented “Opera Under the Stars” at BAYarts in Bay Village and The Grove in Mayfield Village. Join us to witness some of the most talented singers in Cleveland duke it out (vocally), and reach new heights. Who will ultimately drop the mic? Only one way to find out.

Moustache Yourself

Sunday, September 18 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Gypsy jazz, also known as gypsy swing, hot club jazz or by its French name, “Jazz Manouche” (not to be confused with Jazz Moustache), is a musical style made famous in the 1930s by guitarist Django Reinhardt. Northeast Ohio’s leading gypsy jazz quartet, Moustache Yourself, is on a mission to incorporate the entire history of this style into a mix of songs ranging from its beginnings to the present day. Clarinetist Brad Wagner, bassist Matthew DeRubertis and guitarists Brent Hamker and Jeremy Jones have played with acts such as Cleveland Jazz Orchestra, Wesley Bright, Ernie Krivda’s Big Band and The Admirables. Their infectious rhythm and exotic melodies will capture your soul and transport you to a different time and place. Please enjoy this rare treat of old world sounds!

North Coast Winds
Sunday, September 25 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
From the shores of Lake Erie, the North Coast Winds has emerged as a dynamic player in the cultural fabric of the Great Lakes region. Formed by alumni of the Cleveland Institute of Music, the quintet consists of bassoonist Arleigh Savage, Ben Chen on clarinet, Emily Rapson on French horn, Mary Kausek on oboe and flautist Madeline Lucas Tolliver. The members have performed with the Cleveland Orchestra, Cleveland Pops, Pittsburgh Opera and Ballet and the Buffalo Philharmonic. When not performing, they offer outreach to local schools and host a chamber music camp they founded in 2015. Their performance, “The Modern Romantic,” will highlight the evolution of winds from the late 19th to the early 20th century. Listeners will enjoy the lush melodies and colors expressed by German romantic composers and delight in the whimsy and lightness of this period’s music.

Richard McClendon Jr.
Sunday, October 2 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Richard McClendon mixes amazement and wonder with magical illusions to give your brain a workout. Richard’s infatuation with magic began at age ten when he saw a magician on the Ed Sullivan Show. This sparked a curiosity Richard had never felt before. He would often spend his childhood earnings, three dollars a week from cutting grass, at Snyder’s House of Magic. He practiced daily until he could make the magic come to life. Richard loved to watch Mark Wilson and Harry Blackstone Jr., but Del Ray is his favorite magician of all time. A Shaker Heights native, Richard now travels the country performing and amazing all ages and audiences, and it’s not unusual to catch Richard on country-wide television broadcasts. Richard will amaze, fascinate and deliver mind-blowing wonderment with his magical illusions.

Brian Henke
Sunday, October 9 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Brian Henke composes and performs his music like a plein air painter. He draws his inspiration from the world around him. An avid hiker, he often brings his guitar along to create a spontaneous response to his outdoor settings. Henke’s eight solo albums also celebrate the seasons. His unique guitar style has been called everything from folk to new age to neo-classical to pastoral, or as Henke likes to call it, “a big stewpot of everything, stirred up, simmered and served to taste.” Along with winning many acoustic and electric guitar awards, Henke has performed or shared the bill with acts as diverse as Yes, Bill Frisell, Linda Ronstadt, Richie Havens, John Prine and Dar Williams. His music is lyrical, thought provoking, virtuosic, spiritual and pleasing to the ear.

The Clifton Beat
Sunday, October 16 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
The Clifton Beat is a rock and power pop band with influences as broad as rock and roll itself. Like the groups that came before them—the Beatles, the Byrds, the Rolling Stones—the Clifton Beat features tight arrangements, edgy guitars and well-conceived harmonies. Formed in 2011, the band is made up of guitarists Bill Rouse and Dave Lowery, bassist Mark Bluhm and drummer Paul Nickels. The guys honed their sound live at venues in Lakewood and throughout greater Cleveland before they released their first album together, Pushing Back the End of Time, in November 2015. This album includes original songs that were recorded at Nickels’ house in Lakewood. Be on the lookout, these locals might just Abbey Road their way across Detroit Avenue to the Library.
Winston Churchill

Sunday, October 23 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Seventy years after giving his “Iron Curtain” speech in Fulton, Missouri, Winston Churchill is coming back to recall his most memorable moments and eloquent speeches during his incredible fifty-year career. Upon Churchill’s death in 1965 at the age of ninety, Clement Attlee, Churchill’s wartime deputy and post-war successor as prime minister, declared that Churchill was “the greatest Englishman of our time [and] the greatest citizen of the world of our time.” In 1950, Time magazine declared him “man of the half century.” Kevin Radaker, professor of English at Anderson University in Indiana, brings Winston Churchill back to life. A veteran actor-scholar, Radaker also performs highly acclaimed portrayals of C. S. Lewis and Henry David Thoreau. In addition to the historical and political themes mentioned above, Radaker’s program will be infused with Churchill’s marvelous wit and pugnacious personality! Or as he said, “In the course of my life I have often had to eat my words, and I must confess that I have always found it a wholesome diet.”

Sunday Docs: Containment (2015)

Directed by Peter Galison and Robb Moss
Sunday, October 30 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Left over from the Cold War are a hundred million gallons of radioactive sludge, thousands of acres of radioactive land, tens of thousands of unused hot buildings, all above slowly spreading deltas of contaminated ground water. Governments around the world, desperate to protect future generations, have begun imagining society 10,000 years from now in order to create monuments that will speak across time. Part graphic novel and part observational essay, Containment weaves between an uneasy present and an imaginative, troubled far future, exploring the idea that over millennia, nothing stays put. Filmed in weapon plants in the U.S., at Fukushima and in a waste storage facility deep underground, Containment is the second film by Harvard University Professors Peter Galison and Robb Moss. In it, they ask us, can we contain some of the deadliest and most long-lasting substances ever produced?

The Rough & Tumble

Sunday, November 6 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

The Rough & Tumble used to say they were from Nashville, Tennessee. That was before Mallory Graham and Scott Tyler quit their jobs and moved into a small, pull-behind camper. They hit the road with their dog, Butter, and have been touring the country, singing their brand of haunting, quirky, spritely and solemn Americana wherever they go. Last year, they criss-crossed the country twice and went as far north as Ontario, Canada and as far south as Fort Lauderdale, Florida. It seems like they are used to traveling. Tyler, from central California, met Graham, from western Pennsylvania, at music school on Martha’s Vineyard in Massachusetts. Along with this wanderlust, the Rough & Tumble are suckers for a good story, and recently, they were approached to write a soundtrack to the short film Pieces and Pieces. “We read the script and loved the characters and the way they were developed with their actions,” Graham said. “I think we see ourselves in these songs as much as we see the characters in the movie.”
Accidental Comedy
Sunday, November 13 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

“All I did was stubbornly refuse to believe Cleveland couldn’t be a great comedy city because I couldn’t afford to not live with my dad,” said Ramon Rivas II. Accidental Comedy is a collective of comics dedicated to enriching the arts in Cleveland through live comedy. For the last five years, the festival they’ve curated brings the best and brightest comedians to the area, including Danny Tamberelli (The Adventures of Pete and Pete), Kurt Braunohler (Bob’s Burgers) and Keith and Kenny Lucas (Arrested Development). The last two festivals were held at Mahall’s 20 Lanes, across from the Madison Branch! At the Library, their event will feature a mix of Accidental artists and special guests.

The Gage Brothers
Sunday, November 20 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

The Gage boys come from a large family nestled in the rural parts of Northeast Ohio. They’ve grown up working hard, making music, eating healthy doses of mama’s cooking and making more music. The high-energy roots band got their start in 2014 when brothers Ben and Zach Gage spent a Sunday afternoon kicking around old folk songs. Before long, they released their first album, Take It Back. These days, Ben and Zach are joined by honorary siblings Brendan O’Malley (Honeybucket) on mandolin and Chris Volpe on banjo. This family band draws you in with their lyrics, harmonies, instrumentation, joy and friendship, and they keep you there by creating an energy that keeps your foot tapping and wanting more.

Sunday Docs: Earth, Water, Woman (2013)
Directed by Sarah Feinbloom and Alexandra Swati Guild
Sunday, November 27 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Three decades ago, Akilah Jaramogi settled on a barren, deforested hillside in Trinidad and Tobago, blighted by floods in the rainy season and fires in the dry season. Together with her late husband, Tacuma, they started a family and reforested over 125 acres, restoring health to the hills and the watershed just outside the capital city of Port-of-Spain. Earth, Water, Woman tells the inspiring story of a sustainable agro-forestry community led by Akilah called Fondes Amandes. When her husband died, Akilah continued their great work, initiating the Fondes Amandes Community Reforestation Project. Today Fondes Amandes is a thriving village atop a flourishing forest where residents have planted over 60,000 seedlings over the past thirty years. The community is regularly visited by foreign dignitaries and Akilah is heralded as the Wangari Maathai of Trinidad and Tobago. Earth, Water, Woman deepens viewers understanding of the ways that water, the fundamental source of life, flows between us and connects us all.

In Memoriam
Douglas Fisher (1925-2016)

Mr. Fisher was a lifelong resident of Lakewood. Upon his retirement from NASA, Mr. Fisher became an integral part of the Friends of Lakewood Public Library. After three decades of devoted service sorting books and working at the Book Sales, Mr. Fisher’s sparkling smile and charming personality will be sorely missed by staff and patrons alike.
David Drazin Accompanies The Cameraman (1928)
Sunday, December 4 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Multipurpose Room
With a background in all styles of jazz and contemporary music, David Drazin uses his virtuosic talent at the piano to accompany films from the silent era. Thanks to his father’s record collection and piano lessons from his mother, Drazin was thoroughly interested in jazz as a kid. Along with being influenced by jazz greats like Louis Armstrong, Drazin was influenced by film great D.W. Griffith. He’s notable among contemporary film accompanists for his use of 1920s-era jazz and blues, rather than classic ragtime. In 1985, the School of the Art Institute of Chicago hired him to accompany silent films at its theater, now the Gene Siskel Film Center. Since then, he’s performed at the Cinevent Film Festival in Columbus, the Cleveland Museum of Art, the Cinematheque and has been invited to play three times at the Pordenone Film Festival in Italy. According to the Plain Dealer, “[Drazin] expertly fills in the sounds of silence.” At the Library, Drazin will accompany Buster Keaton’s 1928 classic comedy The Cameraman.

Sommerfugl
Sunday, December 11 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
After meeting in another band five years ago, local music veterans Holly Overton and William Drake decided to write songs together, and with those songs, they created Sommerfugl, pronounced “summer fool”—Danish for “butterfly.” With Overton on violin and Drake on guitar, their instrumentation is a journey. They share a fondness for love songs and torch songs, and their harmonies are rich and delicate. You can tell they enjoy singing and playing together. Their most recent album, Somewhere on the Wind, is a twelve song breezy ride influenced by Peter, Paul and Mary, and Sam and Dave. Their warmth will remind you of when your grass was green and not covered in snow.

Mike and Mary
Sunday, December 18 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Jazz and pop duo Mike Elkins and Mary Osburn have been performing the music of the Great American Songbook for over seven years. Although they were children of the 60s, Elkins and Osburn were influenced by the musical tastes of their parents. Mike’s father was a high school band and choral director, and Mike has been playing piano since he was eight. Mary’s earliest influence was her mother, an accomplished pianist, who introduced her to musical theater and the music of George and Ira Gershwin. While Mike and Mary share a love for composers like Cy Coleman and Rogers and Hart, they take great delight in rediscovering wonderful standards that originated in long forgotten Broadway shows and introducing them to new audiences.

Ginger Ackley
Sunday, January 8 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Although she’s been playing the autoharp since the 90s, until Ginger Ackley took a trip with a group of Celtic musicians, including the daughter of one of the Clancy Brothers and a member of the Scottish folk band Silly Wizard, she never thought of herself as a songwriter. But when Ackley won a songwriting contest for her song “It Is Time,” she really started to go places. A sixth generation Texan, Ackley moved to her father’s home state of Ohio in 2009, and she soon fell in with the creative crowd here. The best way to describe Ackley’s music is Celtic with a twist. She sings about the past and the lessons that we need to remember. Fellow Sunday with the Friends performer Brian Henke produced Ackley’s most recent album, Elf King’s Horn, which is a collection of original songs that are inspired by traveling and tell stories that will touch your heart.
Something Dada
Sunday, January 15 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Something Dada has been entertaining audiences with their unique brand of fast-paced improvised comedy for over twenty years. Formed in 1994, the improv comedy group opened Cabaret Dada Improvisational Theater on W. 6th Street in Cleveland in May of 1995. They performed there for over ten years, and after some brief stints around town, they’ve been performing at the Beck Center for the Arts for the last five years. Something Dada is similar to the popular TV series “Whose Line is it Anyway?” All shows are based entirely on audience suggestions and made up right before your eyes. The content is constantly changing to reflect history, popular culture or whatever random ideas the audience supplies. No two shows are ever the same, and you never know what you might see.

Sunday Docs: The Bad Kids (2016)
Directed by Louis Pepe and Keith Fulton
Presented by Lakewood City Academy
Sunday, January 22 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
At a remote Mojave Desert high school, extraordinary educators believe that, more than academics, it is love, empathy and life skills that give at-risk students command of their own futures. This coming-of-age story watches education combat the crippling effects of poverty on the lives of these so-called “bad kids.” Employing a vérité approach during a year at the school, The Bad Kids follows Principal Vonda Viland as she coaches teens, including a new father who struggles to support his family, a young woman grappling with sexual abuse and an angry young man from an unstable home, through the traumas and obstacles that rob them of their spirit and threaten their goal of a high school diploma. This is not another To Sir, With Love, or even Welcome Back, Kotter. It is real, true, at times heart-breaking and unbelievable and at other times, tender and triumphant. This film was shown at last year’s Cleveland International Film Festival. At the Library, it will be presented by Lakewood City Academy. After the film, Lakewood City Academy staff members, including Renee Kolecki, Drop-Out Prevention, will be on hand to discuss how Lakewood City Academy shares approaches to educating students in our community who have similar needs.

Kristine Jackson
Sunday, January 29 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
From her gritty, smoky vocals to her soul-moving songwriting to her unique guitar style—Kristine Jackson’s music is raw. Known by her fans as KJ, Jackson began her career backing up world class vocalists as a trumpet player. In 2004, she decided to pick up the guitar, and before long, she was opening up for blues acts such as Buddy Guy, B.B. King and Taj Mahal. She has since made a name for herself as a vocalist, multi-instrumentalist and songwriter. Jackson has a captivating way of taking inspiration from life and translating those emotions into song. In 2010, KJ released her first full-length album, Candy Store, and with it, she dealt with two life changing events: losing her cousin to Hodgkin’s lymphoma and going public about her sexual abuse as a child. Since then, she’s helped raise over $50,000 to fight Hodgkin’s lymphoma with her organization Kickin’ the Cancer Blues. This summer, Jackson finished her fourth album, By Your Side, playing rhythm and lead guitars, bass, beatboxing and singing. “The blues world is where my music was born,” she said, “but not where it has to stay.”
TriHearn
Sunday, February 5 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Having been brought up by musical parents (Dad plays guitar, Mom plays flute), siblings Caitlin, Brendan and Conor Hearn started playing as a trio in 2002. Born in Maryland and now residing in Cleveland, TriHearn’s sound is a mix of Irish, Scottish and American folk music. That’s why they fit in so well with a tall, foamy pint. Currently, they have a regular Thursday night gig at Parnell’s Pub on Lee Road. Apart from their weekly traditional session, they have been playing around the country and attending music camps around the world. Their blend of guitar, fiddle, cello and three part harmonies will lift your spirits and make you say, “Sláinte.”

Diane and Brian
Sunday, February 12 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Diane Julin Menges, a graduate of Cleveland State University with a degree in vocal performance, has been featured with PAND (Performers and Artists for Nuclear Disarmament), Heights Chamber Orchestra and Choral Arts Cleveland. Having come from a musical family, Diane was exposed to a variety of music, from bluegrass to Beethoven, at a very young age. Brian Kozak, a Lakewood resident, is a graduate of Cleveland Institute of Music and Baldwin-Wallace College with degrees in classical guitar performance. Although his first instrument was the viola, as a child, Brian looked forward every week to seeing Chet Akins play on TV, and he begged his parents for a guitar. Brian’s classical guitar style fits well with Diane’s love of folksongs and languages, and their program offers a beautiful sampling of music from England, Spain, Italy, Haiti, Brazil and North America.

Sunday Docs: A Sinner in Mecca (2015)
Directed by Parvez Sharma
Sunday, February 19 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
For a gay filmmaker, filming in Saudi Arabia presents two serious challenges: filming is forbidden in the country and homosexuality is punishable by death. For Parvez Sharma, however, these were risks he had to take as he embarked on his Hajj pilgrimage, a journey considered the greatest accomplishment and aspiration within his religion, Islam. On the tenth anniversary of the September 11th attacks, Parvez left his home in New York, the mecca of freedom, to join peace-loving pilgrims and brutal jihadists to fulfill a lifelong calling. On his journey, Parvez aims to look beyond 21st century Islam’s crises of religious extremism, commercialism and sectarian battles. The Washington Post called A Sinner in Mecca “Revelatory.”

The Hollywood Slim Band
Sunday, February 26 at 2:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
The Hollywood Slim band is a unique member of Cleveland’s blues family. Brothers Greg, also known as “Hollywood Slim,” and John Lucic have been playing music in Cleveland for over forty years. Hollywood Slim is known for his bluesy singing voice and John, who has lived in Lakewood for over thirty years, plays guitar and sings backup. Rounding out the quartet are Paul Lawson, also of Lakewood, on bass and vocals and Mark Ryan on drums, percussion and vocals. Although their music is based on Hollywood’s love for 50s/60s Chicago style blues and John’s love for 40s/50s jazz music, the band still enjoys adding arrangements to their repertoire and giving some of the arrangements their own touch with three part harmonies. This translates into music that remains fresh, even though some of it is over seventy years old!
The Illusionist (2006)

Directed by Neil Burger
Saturday, September 3 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

In turn of the century Austria-Hungary, famed illusionist Eisenheim is performing at a Vienna theatre. He requests a volunteer from the audience, and long lost love Sophie, a countess, obliges. She is betrothed to Crown Prince Leopold, said to be abusive toward women. They re-connect and plot a means of escape. Suspicious of an affair, chief inspector Uhl has them followed and voices concerns to the crown prince. When Leopold confronts Sophie, her response triggers a violent attack. Gravely wounded, she manages to flee on her horse. Next day, the riderless animal comes home. A search party ensues, and her lifeless body is found in a wooded area. Leopold is not moved by the discovery and continues to plot a coup. Ever the master of illusion, Eisenheim focuses on the perfect revenge. Barbara Steffek-Hill presents a series of classic and contemporary films from her personal favorites.

The Best Man (1964)

Directed by Franklin J. Schaffner
Saturday, September 10, at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Terry Meehan’s new series, “Politics and the Movies,” features five films that explore the political landscape, from nominations and elections to the pitfalls of the presidency. First up, The Best Man stars Henry Fonda and Cliff Robertson as two presidential candidates who are fighting for their party’s nomination. Neither thinks the other is qualified to be president, and both will do almost anything to secure their party’s nod. The film was scripted by Gore Vidal, adapting his own 1960 play. He based the characters on real-life figures, such as Adlai Stevenson and John Kennedy and Richard Nixon. Meehan will introduce each film with rare clips and original documentaries, followed by audience reaction and a lively discussion.

The Lost City (2005)

Directed by Andy Garcia
Saturday, September 17 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Havana of the late 1950s is a lush magnet for high rollers and turistas who crowd casinos, populate grand hotels and enjoy the glittering nightlife. Son of a well-to-do educated family, Fico Fellove owns El Tropico, the hottest club in town. The New York mob is ruled by Meyer Lansky. He pays Fellove a visit and expects to be cut in on the establishment’s action. A polite refusal ensues and he leaves, but not without repercussion. Despite outward appearances, Cuba is a powder keg. It explodes into revolution. It isn’t long before Fico and the club become targets of Castro’s minions. Before long, he must make the decision whether to stay or try to leave Cuba. Barbara Steffek-Hill presents a series of classic and contemporary films from her personal favorites.

Dragnet (1987)

Directed by Tom Mankiewicz
Saturday, September 24 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Dan Aykroyd plays Joe Friday, the nephew of the original Joe Friday, in the spoof of the series from the 50s. After his partner leaves L.A. to buy a goat farm, Friday is assigned the freewheeling yuppie Pep Streebeck. They are appointed to investigate a series of connected crimes—arson at a printing press that produced nudie magazines, the theft of a thirty-foot-long boa constrictor from the zoo and the siphoning of two cargo trains of toxic chemicals. As Friday and Streebeck get closer to the havoc causing cult: the People Against Normalcy and Goodness (P.A.G.A.N.), they realize the people involved may be more insidious than they thought.
To Have and Have Not (1944)
Directed by Howard Hawks
Saturday, October 1 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Charter fishing boat captain Harry Morgan and often inebriated sidekick Eddie dock on the island of Martinique which has fallen under control of the Vichy pro-Nazi government of France. Insufficient finances force them to abandon principle and take a risky job. Despite everything going on around them, Harry and lounge singer Marie “Slim” Browning have begun a romance. The night to undertake the dangerous mission arrives. While headed back to port, his vessel takes fire from a patrol cruiser, escapes into the fog but has been identified. The police ply Eddie with drinks hoping he will let slip useful information. Does loyalty succumb to liquor? Barbara Steffek-Hill presents a series of classic and contemporary films from her personal favorites.

Bob Roberts (1992)
Directed by Tim Robbins
Saturday, October 8 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Bob Roberts is a conservative Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate, running against incumbent Democrat Brickley Paiste. Tim Robbins not only plays the title character, but also wrote and directed the film. The film takes the point of view of a British documentarian, who is following the folk-singing politician back and forth across Pennsylvania. Also following the campaign is investigative reporter Bugs Raplin, who believes Roberts is a fraud and wants to prove it. Robbins reportedly wrote no lines for Vidal but asked the well-known political commentator to respond to the other characters as the real-life Gore Vidal. Terry Meehan continues his series on political movies, introducing each film with original documentaries, followed by audience reaction and a lively discussion.

Days of Heaven (1978)
Directed by Terrence Malick
Saturday, October 15 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Set in 1916, the same year as the Library’s founding, Terrence Malick’s second feature tells the story of three transient workers. Richard Gere plays Bill, who, after hitting his boss in the head with a pipe at the Chicago steelyard, flees with his little sister, Linda, and lover, Abby. They hop a train to the Texas panhandle and work harvesting wheat on the farm of a dying man. Bill and Abby pose as siblings to avoid gossip, and soon, the owner of the farm falls in love with her.

The Secret in Their Eyes (2009)
Directed by Juan Jose Campanella
Saturday, October 22 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Years after the fact, retired federal detective Benjamín Esposito is still haunted by a murder he and assistant Pablo investigated and solved. The accused never went to trial and evaded justice. At the time, Irene was their department chief. Devastated the killer is walking free, Benjamín quits the job and goes away. Now middle-aged, married twice and divorced, Benjamín has returned and is writing a novel based upon the old case. He decides to try and track down Ricardo, husband of the murdered young woman. Upon finding the house, he is allowed inside. The men talk. Benjamín departs, troubled by the thought that Ricardo is hiding something. Barbara Steffek-Hill presents a series of classic and contemporary films from her personal favorites.
Only Lovers Left Alive (2013)
Directed by Jim Jarmusch
Saturday, October 29 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
In a crumbling current-day Detroit, Adam is a reclusive musician with a case of the blues. With his only interactions coming from a rare instrument peddler and the lab tech he buys his blood from—now, vampires are too scared of infection to bite someone’s neck—he asks his long-distance lover, Eve, to visit from Tangier. Eve packs a suitcase full of books and takes a redeye to America. When Eve’s sister, Ava, arrives out of the blue, she mooches off their blood stash, testing the limits of their addiction. Jarmusch’s hipster vampires don’t creep around corners. Instead, they converse about theories of electricity and famous authors and cruise in a classic car through the empty streets of a rustbelt city.

Ninotchka (1939)
Directed by Ernst Lubitsch
Saturday, November 5 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
No-nonsense envoy Ninotchka arrives in Paris from Stalin’s Soviet Union to determine what has delayed the sale of valuables confiscated during the revolution, once the property of an exiled grand duchess. Her three countrymen charged with handling the transaction have been enjoying the ways of capitalism rather than taking care of business. She soon crosses paths with Count Leon d’Algout, a charming playboy. His objective is to throw a monkey wrench into the sale on behalf of his paramour the grand duchess so she can reclaim the jewels that rightfully belong to her. The grand duchess does not take kindly to the role of scorned woman and gives Ninotchka an ultimatum. Barbara Steffek-Hill presents a series of classic and contemporary films from her personal favorites.

The Candidate (1972)
Directed by Michael Ritchie
Saturday, November 12 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Democratic strategist Marvin Lucas is trying to find a candidate to oppose U.S. Senator Crocker Jarmon, a popular California Republican. None of the big-name Democrats are interested because they feel the race would be unwinnable. Lucas then considers Bill McKay, the idealistic, charismatic son of a former governor. McKay accepts as long as he can do or say what he likes while on the campaign trail. Lucas agrees, because neither man believes there is any chance for a Democratic victory against Jarmon. Terry Meehan continues his series on political movies, introducing each film with original documentaries, followed by audience reaction and a lively discussion.

Directed by Yimou Zhang
Saturday, November 19 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Mighty as the corrupt Tang dynasty once was, in 850 A.D. it is being undermined by an organization operating in the shadows known as The House of Flying Daggers. Members are superbly skilled in the use of sword, knives and bow. The leader is dead, but his blind daughter Xiao Mei is suspected of having succeeded him. Leo, a police officer, has incarcerated a beautiful blind dancer believed to be that girl. He devises a scheme to use her as bait in order to find where the group hides. Jin’s mission is to gain Xiao’s trust in hopes of being led to the elusive band of warriors. Leo has warned Jin not to fall for Xiao and risk jeopardizing the operation. Perhaps Fate disagrees. Barbara Steffek-Hill presents a series of classic and contemporary films from her personal favorites.
Down Periscope (1996)
Directed by David S. Ward
Saturday, November 26 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Due to a bet by his superiors, Lt. Commander Tom Dodge is finally put in command of a submarine of his own. But, it’s an old junk box of a submarine: the U.S.S. Stingray. With a little paint and polish, the only diesel sub in the U.S. fleet dives in to take part in a simulated war game. With a ragtag bunch of sailors and a bit unconventional in his tactics, Dodge must outsmart his competitors for a chance to command a nuclear sub of his own.

Take the Money and Run (1969)
Directed by Woody Allen
Saturday, December 3 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Virgil Starkwell is the most inept criminal in history. Take the Money and Run follows Starkwell from his days as a misled youth, one who constantly gets caught red handed and has his glasses ripped off his face and crushed, to an adult with a long criminal record, who also has his glasses ripped off and crushed. Somewhere in between, Starkwell meets Louise, a laundry worker, and tells her he’s in the Philharmonic. If only he could play the cello, their lives would be different. Instead, he tries to rob a bank and writes he has a “gub.” See for yourself if Virgil ever tunes up his cello and gets on the straight and narrow.

He Got Game (1998)
Directed by Spike Lee
Saturday, December 10 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Spike Lee presents a biting take on basketball recruitment and the pressures on young athletes. Jesus Shuttlesworth is a senior at a New York City high school and the top-ranked basketball player in the country. Conveniently, his father Jake is released from jail at the same time that recruiters come around to offer Jesus a scholarship. In order to stay out of jail, it’s up to Jake to convince his son to go to the governor’s alma mater. After seeing what colleges have to offer—in a montage where Lee enlisted several actual college coaches and NBA players—Jesus must decide what’s right for him.

Wild at Heart (1990)
Directed by David Lynch
Saturday, December 17 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

In this road movie, nothing is normal. After being released from prison for brutally beating a man, Sailor Ripley and his lover, Lula Fortune, ride off in a convertible. It’s a good thing Lula brought Sailor’s snakeskin jacket because it represents his “individuality and his belief in personal freedom.” Lula’s mother, Marietta is incensed at the relationship and will do anything in her power to stop it. The movie features a stand-out performance from Willem Dafoe as Bobby Peru, and a strange aside involving Lula’s cousin Dell, who likes to put roaches in his underpants.
Strictly Ballroom (1993)

Directed by Baz Luhrmann
Saturday, January 7 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Maverick ballroom dancer Scott Hastings breaks the rules during the Latin dance portion of a regional competition and is disqualified. His partner drops him like a hot Vegemite sandwich. Auditions for a replacement are disastrous. Unlikely Fran, a beginner at the studio, summons up the nerve and asks Scott if she can partner with him. Desperate, he begins to teach her the necessary moves. He discovers that Fran has a surprise or two in her dancing shoes. Fran’s very strict Spanish father, Rico, finds the pair in conversation outside the family home. Not only does he confront them, but drops a bombshell on Scott. Barbara Steffek-Hill presents a series of classic and contemporary films from her personal favorites.

Seven Days in May (1964)

Directed by John Frankenheimer
Saturday, January 14 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

The U.S. President has just negotiated a disarmament treaty with the Soviet Union, much to the dismay of his top generals. They want to remove him from office without benefit of the electoral process: a garden-variety coup d’état. Colonel “Jiggs” Casey becomes suspicious and tries to get answers from his former boss, General Scott. President Kennedy believed the scenario could actually occur. He also supported the making of the movie, even though the Pentagon wanted to shut it down. Unfortunately, Kennedy never got to see it. Terry Meehan continues his series on political movies, introducing each film with original documentaries, followed by audience reaction and a lively discussion.

The Age of Innocence (1993)

Directed by Martin Scorsese
Saturday, January 21 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

New York’s upper crust society of 1880 is a world inhabited only by those wealthy or connected enough to belong. Ellen Olenska and Newland Archer are members. Ellen has come back to the United States after leaving her nobleman husband; an act frowned upon under the hidebound mores of that class. Her family makes a show of welcome and gives a party in her honor. Newland and Ellen are introduced and spend time in conversation. Newland flings caution to the wind and sends flowers, regardless of being engaged to Ellen’s cousin May. He calls on the countess at her home where they find pleasure in each other’s company. The private visits continue. In an environment where a repeated whisper can forever destroy the reputations of those who defy convention, Ellen and Newland nevertheless play with fire. Barbara Steffek-Hill presents a series of classic and contemporary films from her personal favorites.

Billy Budd (1962)

Directed by Peter Ustinov
Saturday, February 4 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium

Edwin Vere captains the sailing ship H.M.S. Avenger when the Napoleonic Wars are in full swing. The ship’s mission is to engage the French fleet. There have been two recent mutinies on British naval vessels, so Edwin relies upon cruel master-at-arms John Claggart to maintain discipline and order. Billy Budd is taken from a merchant ship and pressed into service on Avenger. When Billy is promoted to fore-top captain, John seethes and tries to persuade the captain to change his mind. He soon tries to set up Billy as leader of a mutiny, a high-seas crime punishable by death. Edwin is unconvinced of the boy’s guilt. The unthinkable happens. Barbara Steffek-Hill presents a series of classic and contemporary films from her personal favorites.
All the President's Men (1976)
Directed by Alan J. Pakula
Saturday, February 11 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
On June 17, 1972, security guard Frank Wills was making his rounds at the Watergate Complex when he found a door that was kept unlocked with Duct Tape. The events that followed kept the country on edge for a little over two years, culminating in the resignation of President Nixon on August 9, 1974. Dustin Hoffman and Robert Redford star as the iconic journalists, while Frank Wills completes his fifteen minutes of fame by playing himself. Terry Meehan concludes his series on "Politics and the Movies," introducing each film with rare clips and original documentaries, followed by audience reaction and a lively discussion.

Gaslight (1944)
Directed by George Cukor
Saturday, February 18 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
A famous diva is killed in her own home and the valuable collection of jewelry she owned has gone missing. Paula Alquist, the woman’s niece, finds the body. Traumatized, she is sent away to school, and eventually trains to become a singer. After meeting and marrying Gregory Anton, the couple return to London. At his insistence, they live in the same house that had been the murder scene so many years ago. The once kind husband becomes cold and cruel. His wife mentally unravels until paranoia takes over. Gregory convinces Paula she is indeed crazy and entirely separates her from the outside world. When Brian Cameron, a detective, has a chance to speak with her alone she tells him of the many bizarre events. He believes something suspicious has been going on and decides to investigate. Barbara Steffek-Hill presents a series of classic and contemporary films from her personal favorites.

A Serious Man (2009)
Directed by Joel and Ethan Coen
Saturday, February 25 at 6:00 p.m.
Main Library Auditorium
Larry Gopnik is just trying to be a serious man. His wife is leaving him for his colleague. His son is a stoner, and his daughter is full of teenage angst. All that he has left is his job as an untenured physics professor; his brother, Arthur, who hogs the bathroom draining the puss from his back and his sexy neighbor, who he spies sunbathing in the nude while on the roof fixing his TV antennae. In an effort to get his life back on track, he goes to his local temple to seek the advice of the Rabbis. But will their advice help or just befuddle him?

Sensory Story Time:
For You and Your 3 to 7 Year Old Child
Sundays, September 25, October 23, November 20, January 15 and February 12 from 3:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.
Main Library Toddler Story Room
Sensory story time can be enjoyed by all children, but is specially designed for young children with special needs, autism or those with sensory processing challenges. Our librarians will incorporate schedule boards, books, visual stories, music and movement to create an engaging and interactive program for your family. Following the program, families will have an opportunity to socialize in a sensory friendly environment. If your child has a difficult time sitting through other story times, this inclusive, sensory integrating program may be just what you are looking for! Registration is required.

Connecting For Kids
At The Lakewood Public Library
Connecting for Kids provides education and support to families with concerns about their children. We serve all families, including those with children with and without formal diagnoses. CFK offers educational programs, support groups, a Parent Match Program and numerous resources.
