FROM THE DIRECTOR

Thank you for taking the time to page through this guide to learn about all of the programs and services we offer to children and adults, students and senior citizens, longtime residents and the newly arrived. The Library is a place where everyone is invited to pursue their ambitions and enjoy peaceful solitude, but it is also an opportunity for us to come together, whether you live in Lakewood or are just passing through. In this spirit, we look forward to each event with great anticipation.

We know that Lakewood Public Library isn’t your only choice. Thank you for your patronage. We are all fortunate to live in Northeast Ohio, home to nationally ranked libraries that offer world class services. As professionals, we enjoy the friendly competition that exists between sister libraries because it means that we can never afford to rest on our laurels. As patrons, we are simply grateful to share in the wealth of materials and services available to all.

This past year, Lakewood Public Library was granted four stars by Library Journal—an honor that joins a long list of accolades won by our staff over the years. I have included the relevant statistics that went into the making of this decision, not to brag about what we have accomplished in the past, but to encourage you to look beyond the numbers to see why small, independent libraries matter for the future.

As the world changes around us, faster and faster, and our information needs grow, all of our libraries must constantly innovate. With a small staff, most of whom serve in multiple capacities, Lakewood Public Library is uniquely positioned to listen to its patrons and anticipate their needs. And as an independent library, we have an unrivalled freedom to use this insight to find new ways to make the most of our resources. Are we doing enough and are we doing it well? Only you can tell us.

As always, we look forward to seeing you at your Library,

James Crawford
Director

SUNDAY WITH THE FRIENDS
THE MAIN LIBRARY AUDITORIUM AT 2:00 P.M.

MARCH 3  Kent Dockus: Violin on Fire
For centuries, no instrument has stirred the hidden recesses of the soul quite like the violin. Lakewood’s own Kent Dockus plugs in to add a little juice with his five-string Viper electric, playing everything from classic rock to modern pop with a fiery, classical flourish.

MARCH 10  The Vibrant Wind Dancers’ Midwinter Night’s Dream
“There sleepes Tytania, sometime of the night / Lul’d in these flowers, with dances and delight.” The Vibrant Wind Dancers bring a Middle Eastern flavor to Celtic and Spanish music as they float over the frozen ground with silk scarves, longing to throw their ringlets to the whistling wind of thawing spring.

MARCH 17  Darby O’Gill and the Little People  Directed by Robert Stevenson
The King of the Leprechauns is over five thousand years old and he’s learned a new trick every day of his life. Has he finally met his match in Darby O’Gill? You don’t have to be Irish to enjoy this Disney classic. Sean Connery sure isn’t and he’s so happy to make his film debut that he breaks out into song!

MARCH 24  Inside the WEWS TV Video Vault: 65 Years of Cleveland TV History
Ever since Channel 5 signed on as Cleveland’s first TV station in 1947, they’ve been broadcasting some of our favorite TV memories. Veteran news cameraman Tom Livingston has been digging through the station’s archives to remind us of a glorious past with clips of The Gene Carroll Show, Polka Varieties, The Morning Exchange, Fred Griffith, Dorothy Fuldheim and breaking news as it happened.

APRIL 7  Acacia Trio
To the Egyptians, Acacia was the tree of life and to Freemasons it represents the endurance of the soul. This guitar, bass and drums jazz trio hails from the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, divining new life from classic song forms.

APRIL 14  The Living Edgar Allan Poe
Poe is long dead, but his midnight verses will live for centuries. How can the living compete? Contemporary poet Vladimir Swirynski dons the guise of Annabel Lee’s most ardent admirer for a haunting recitation of classic poems and stories, mixed with his own contemporary musings.

APRIL 21  The Restorers: They Were All Volunteers  Directed by Adam White
On April 18, 1942, Lieutenant Colonel James “Jimmy” Doolittle led a daring bombing raid on Honshu that gave a much needed boost to American morale and caused the Japanese to doubt the infallibility of their leadership. This locally produced documentary, dedicated to all those who volunteer, chronicles the 2010 reunion of 17 bomber crews from the mission and the particular journey of a B-25 named Miss Mitchell. Meet the filmmakers after the show.

APRIL 28  Muscle and Bone: The Songs of Bob Dylan
Blending rich vocal harmonies over guitar, bass and harmonica, Susan Weber and Walt Campbell celebrate National Poetry Month with the ballads of Bob Dylan. Some are as familiar as old lovers you didn’t know you’d miss while others are friends you never knew you had.

MAY 5  Hot Djang!
In the 1930s, Django Rheinhardt was the epitome of cool and the living embodiment of Gypsy jazz. This four-piece acoustic ensemble takes us back to wild, roaring times in Paris.
MAY 19  Northcoast Jazz Collective
What can we say? According to Scene Magazine, these guys are the Best Jazz Group around. Playing straight up modern jazz that's creative, emotional and accessible, this quartet braves the post-bop world with a hard-working trademark sound that says Cleveland all the way.

JUNE 2  The Whiskey Island Ramblers: Irish Music
Their storytelling ancestors knew these kinds of characters a hundred and eighty years ago when they first arrived on Whiskey Island—cops, bus drivers, bartenders, hot dog vendors, drinking buddies, girlfriends and musicians. The Ramblers celebrate growing up Irish in an industrial landscape.

JUNE 9  Winter Rails and Lackawana Memories
Photographer Roger Durfee loves to take pictures of trains in all kinds of weather all over this great land. Watch his favorite locomotives come to life in this big screen presentation for devoted train enthusiasts and those who just like to watch them roll on by.

JUNE 23  The Rough & Tumble
When Mallory met Scott, they found a notebook on the bus containing sad, old country songs, to-do lists with nothing crossed out, torn pages from a hymnal, minor league baseball tickets, self-written wedding vows, a Chinese take-out menu and a copy of the Declaration of Independence with all the vowels circled in red ink. These are the songs that try men’s souls.

JUNE 30  Brian Henke: Nimble Fingerstyle
The lion sits alone onstage, playing his acoustic guitar with a quiet intensity that can mislead those who aren’t really listening. But if you’re there with him, he can conjure thunderstorms as easily as he can paint a rainbow. Flocks of birds soar overhead while ants build cities at your feet. You are a child again and the wonders of nature are yours.

JULY 21  Wallace Coleman’s Living Blues
An unbroken chain of songs and stories, passed down through musical generations, connects Wallace Coleman to the crossroads birth of the blues. But forget about genre and style for a minute. The blues are really just a way of looking at things. Coleman blows his harmonica and sings songs both funny and sad to make people smile. Works every time.

AUGUST 11  Judy Garland Live!
Somewhere over the rainbow, the sweet, troubled contralto who broke our hearts is still singing. Vocalist Judy Crawford offers us a chance to remember Judy Garland at her best, covering all her trademark songs with spirit and wit.

AUGUST 18  Jody Getz and Friends
This award-winning songwriter is well known for the company she keeps. Drawn together by a good feeling, her supergroup of friends share diverse musical backgrounds filled with blues, folk, rock and pop.

April is National Poetry Month

Feeling into Poetry; Feeling into Lakewood
by Kenneth Warren

Kenneth Warren explores how C.G. Jung’s psychology of types provides a set of cardinal directions for engaging four records of interactive knowledge spoken through poets, punks and Lakewood visionaries. Joe Napora writes, “If you have any interest in poetry, the poetry that matters, Ken Warren’s Captain Poetry’s Sucker Punch needs to be your constant companion. It is a critical examination of the past thirty years of poetry (plus some film & music), and it’s a language event in itself, a poetic mirroring of the occasion for its writing of not only what’s new but what’s news worthy. The list of writers, essential but too often ignored, is impressive: Kerouac, Snyder, Corso, Wakoski, Acker, Eshleman, Doubiago, Eigner, d. a. levy, Susan Howe, Hirschman, Oppen, Tarn, as well as cultural figures like John Cage, Simone Weil, David Lynch, Bo Diddley, and including the major revision of the Charles Olson and Vincent Ferrini relationship, the importance of Jack Clarke, teacher, scholar, poet, all set in the human context (the Homeric subtitle) that makes even the archaic contemporary.”

A Blueprint for Poets
Coffee with the Subconscious by Betty Rozakis

Life is about relationships, the resolved and unresolved. As a poet, a muse and a graphologist, Betty Rozakis has inspired the likes of Kenneth Warren and Michael Heaton with her powerful intuitive insight. Warren wrote of Rozakis, “From Hippocratic humorology to Jungian typology, from enneagram to graphology, Rozakis has done her homework across esoteric systems of human personalities to make Coffee with the Subconscious a functional fiction of archetypal modalities. Intelligently probing elemental vocabularies for structural insights into human process, Rozakis fashions a charming prose-poem of life experience, mystery, romance, and self-confrontation within the conceit of an objective blueprint.” You can either read her work as one epic poem or follow its lessons to map out your own poetic journey.

Dissecting the Spy
[BOND, JAMES]: alphabet, anatomy, [auto] biography by Michelle Disler

The title is an inscrutable as the man himself. James Bond is an elusive character who navigates the world of international espionage with only brief layovers for smokes, drinks and beautiful women. Dr. Michelle Disler, a professor at Ohio Wesleyan University, slows the man down with prose, poems and essays that deconstruct 007 as a model of masculinity. With her own narrative of the reluctant killer, Disler turns the tables and exposes Bond in an entirely new light.

I Sing the Body Electric
A Portrait of Walt Whitman in Words and Music by Wordstage

Letters, diaries and revolutionary poems set to live violin music paint an intimate portrait of America’s most influential poet. The period musical selections serve to conjure the mood of a great, emerging nation careening into civil war. Building on that charged atmosphere, director Tim Tavcar weaves carefully chosen snatches of the poet’s writings into a compelling biography. In an age marked by progress and hypocrisy, slavery and abolition, booming opportunity and silent homophobia, Walt Whitman drew upon his endless reserves of compassion to forge a poetic voice that spoke for the fledgling nation. It shouldn’t be possible to condense all of the passions and circumstances that made a man like Whitman into a single, one-hour presentation—and it isn’t—but Wordstage does a masterful job of sketching out a framework for new appreciation.

Drumplay Remembers Daniel Thompson
A Raucous Outdoor Concert Event for Friends, Strangers and Saxophone

with Maj Ragain, Bill Kennedy, Ray McNiece, Larry Smith and Ernie Krivda

On the eve of the eve of what would have been Daniel Thompson’s seventy-eighth birthday, poets and percussionists will gather to celebrate his defiant spirit, making a joyful noise on the Library’s Front Porch. The late poet laureate of Cleveland was a founding member of Drumplay and he has never left their circle. His words still resonate through Afro-Cuban rhythms and Middle Eastern motifs, sometimes driving the beat and sometimes being carried away. Thompson was a larger-than-life character. He fought and wrote for the homeless, the helpless and the disenfranchised. He had a wicked sense of humor and an anti-authority streak a mile wide. The world-famous jazz saxophonist Ernie Krivda, inspired by Thompson’s devotion to just plain folks, was a frequent collaborator too. He will join poets Maj Ragain, Bill Kennedy, Ray McNiece and Larry Smith in an effort to reimagine those legendary Drumplay concerts and spread Thompson’s words through the city streets—right where they belong.

Friday, April 19 at 6:00 p.m. on the Library’s Front Porch

The Midwife’s Tale
by Sam Thomas

It is 1644 and Parliament’s armies have risen against the King and laid siege to the city of York. Even as the city suffers at the rebels’ hands, midwife Bridget Hodgson becomes embroiled in a different sort of rebellion. One of her friends, Esther, has been convicted of murdering her husband and sentenced to be burnt alive at the stake. Convinced that Esther is innocent, Bridget travels from the homes of the city’s most powerful families to the alleyways of its poorest neighborhoods, searching for the real killer. As she learns more about Esther’s murdered husband, she discovers that ostentatious Puritanism can hide a deeply sinister secret life and that tyranny and treason often go hand in hand. Against the backdrop of the British Civil War, historian Sam Thomas spins a fascinating debut novel filled with mystery and scandal. Books will be available for sale and signing at the event.

Justice Delayed
by Paul H. Mitrovitch

When the case of Brown v. The Board of Education came before the Supreme Court in 1954, the nation came face to face with a crucial moment it had long been avoiding. Did the segregation of children in public schools on the basis of race deprive minority children of the equal protection guaranteed by the 14th Amendment? The final decision, a prelude to the Civil Rights Movement, opened up a wide range of questions about freedom and justice in America by firmly establishing that non-white people had the same legal rights under the Constitution as everyone else. Retired Judge Paul H. Mitrovitch, recounts the slow, methodical process of change within the federal government that led to this groundbreaking moment in history. Books will be available for sale and signing at the event.

Rust Belt Chic
Edited by Richey Piiparinen and Anne Trubek

As growing numbers of young professionals move out of the suburbs and back into the industrial landscapes of Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Detroit, it was only a matter of time before someone coined a term for this urban resurgence. Unwilling to let this new phenomena be defined by hipsters flitting about between New York and LA, the editors of this anthology put out a call for local voices to set down the truth of what it means to be “rust belt chic.” The resulting collection of love letters to our region exposes the beauty and humor beneath the dust and bones that a new generation is working to excavate and bring back to life. With stories by the likes of Michael Ruhlman, Connie Schultz, Laura Maylene Walter and many more of our favorite people, Rust Belt Chic will make you glad to call Cleveland your home. Books will be available for sale and signing at the event.

In the Kitchen with Cleveland’s Favorite Chefs by Maria Isabella
An award-winning author and self-proclaimed foodie asks thirty-five Cleveland chefs, “If you were suddenly to get a call at home from good friends who wanted to stop by, what would you prepare for them in one hour or less?” The answers come in the form of a remarkable cookbook that serves as a whirlwind tour of Cleveland’s rising gastro-scene. Photographs and profiles offer a glimpse into the lives of the world class chefs who live among us and like to feed us. With over one hundred recipes, useful tips from the professionals and well-written, easy to follow steps for each dish, In the Kitchen with Cleveland’s Favorite Chefs invites every cook to put down the microwave pierogies and entertain like a Great Lakes gourmand. Books will be available for sale and signing at the event. Thursday, May 9 at 7:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium

House of Horrors: The Shocking True Story of Anthony Sowell, the Cleveland Strangler by Robert Sberna
In October of 2009, the entire nation was shocked by a SWAT team’s grisly discovery of eleven bodies in the Imperial Avenue home of Anthony Sowell. Cleveland-based journalist Robert Sberna dares to go down the rabbit hole of the mind of a serial killer with thorough research, interviews with experts and a burning desire to understand. More importantly, he examines the lives of the forgotten victims, who were often ignored and demonized because of their lifestyles. After a long journey engaging with police, family members, surviving victims and Sowell himself, Sberna lays bare the unique challenges faced by the police and coroner investigating a series of tragedies and provides readers with an account that is as honest as it is gripping. Books will be available for sale and signing at the event. Thursday, May 16 at 7:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium

My Sicily: Life in the Cusp of the Mediterranean Sea by Francesca V. Mignosa
Sicily is the vibrant, pulsating heart of the Mediterranean with zest to spare—an enchanted island whose landscapes sweep from the rawest spectacles of nature to elegantly planned cities bursting with life. Born and raised immersed in her subject, Mignosa carefully guides readers through each sun-drenched destination, from a co-op where Tunisian and Sicilian women weave rugs in the ancient way to a simple terrace where tomatoes are hung to dry. A love of wine, cuisine, language and history make this book more of a celebration than a simple travel guide. Mignosa is the winner of the Italian Literary Award Sicilia Mondo for her writing and role as a cultural ambassador. Books will be available for sale and signing at the event. LAKEWOOD PUBLIC CINEMA

These films were meant to be enjoyed out loud. No cartwheels in the Library, please.

In Irish myth, the ondine is a spirit of the water whose lilting voice calls over forest pools, waterfalls and the ocean. When Colin Farrell, a poor fisherman, finds a hauntingly beautiful young woman caught in his net, he doesn’t know what to believe. As a hard-luck, single father and the town fool, he’s known a lifetime of disappointment. He knows better than to swallow his own stories. And yet...
Saturday, March 2 at 6:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium

Burke and Hare (2010) Directed by John Landis Rated R
In this hangman’s tale, set back when Edinburgh was the scientific capital of the world, two men will do anything to get a piece of the Enlightenment. Grave robbing can be lucrative if you sell to the right school— but Burke and Hare aren’t very good at it. Killing people is much easier. The director of Animal House and The Blues Brothers takes a grisly page out of history and turns it into a side-splitting story of love and progress. You won’t believe how much of it is true!
Saturday, April 6 at 6:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium

Moonrise Kingdom (2012) Directed by Wes Anderson Rated PG-13
All the world sings of love, then stands stubbornly in the way. On an idyllic island of the coast of New England, two twelve year-olds open their hearts and run away from home to start a new life together. A conspiracy of adults, including Bruce Willis, Edward Norton, Bill Murray and Frances McDormand, follows with mixed emotions. Director Wes Anderson ventures into the world of nature beyond his perfect sets for magical results.
Saturday, May 4 at 6:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium

Why Do Fools Fall in Love? (1998) Directed by Gregory Nava Rated R
Halle Berry, Vivica Fox and Lela Rochon all fell in love with the same, no-good man— but were any of them really married? It matters because Frankie Lymon was an early rock and roll star, famous for singing the title song back in 1956, and an early rock tragedy, dying long before his boyish looks had faded. The three Mrs. Lymons are forced to dredge up painful memories in open court, forming the strangest sisterhood as they piece together his sad, forgotten life. Good laughs and good music go a long way towards healing old wounds.
Saturday, June 1 at 6:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium

The Avengers (2012) Directed by Joss Whedon Rated PG-13
Captain America, Iron Man, the Incredible Hulk and the Mighty Thor team up with Scarlett Johansson and Jeremy Renner to save the world from the Norse god of mischief and his interdimensional allies. Whew! Filmed in Cleveland, this Marvel masterwork displays more compelling drama and depth of character than you might expect from a comic book movie— unless, of course, you actually read comic books.
Saturday, July 6 at 6:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium

Strange Cargo (1940) Directed by Frank Borzage Not Rated
Joan Crawford and Clark Gable make the jungle uncomfortably hot while Peter Lorre ratchets up the creepy in this torrid, sleazy little film about redemption. Six hardened convicts and one woman of ill repute escape an island prison with blood on their hands and sin in their hearts— only to wind up adrift on the ocean. It seems almost certain that these cutthroats will finish each other off long before they die of thirst, but one kind man just might show them the way.

HITCHCOCK COMES TO HOLLYWOOD

During the twenties and thirties, Alfred Hitchcock helped invent the British film industry and movie buffs from around the world came to know him as the Master of Suspense. But in 1939 he began receiving trunk calls from persuasive movie mogul David O. Selznick. Lured by promises of greater creative freedom, wider audiences and a fatter wallet, Hitchcock crossed the ocean in time to attend the 1939 Academy Awards ceremony where Selznick’s Gone with the Wind collected ten Oscars. With Hitchcock at the helm, could Selznick repeat his unprecedented success?

Our friend, Terry Meehan, will introduce each film with clips of the master himself recalling his early years in Hollywood. After the show, Meehan will lead a spirited discussion that will keep you on the edge of your seat.

Rebecca (1940)
Hitchcock’s first Hollywood project was an adaptation of Daphne DuMaurier’s novel. Beautiful young Joan Fontaine marries English nobleman Laurence Olivier but lives in the shadow of the man’s first wife, who died under mysterious circumstances. She arrives at Manderley looking forward to a life of wedded bliss but instead comes under the scrutiny of sinister housekeeper Mrs. Danvers. Selznick got his Oscar, but Hitch was denied Best Director.

Saturday, March 9 at 6:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium

Suspicion (1941)
Joan Fontaine gets a callback, this time as a woman who thinks her husband, Cary Grant, married her for the money and wants to get her fitted for a coffin. Fontaine parlayed her suspicions into an Oscar. When Grant brings her a beverage to help her sleep, we are quite certain that the milk is fortified with more than just Vitamin D. (Hitch actually placed a small light inside the glass to give it a sinister glow). This was the first of Hitch’s four films with Grant who became one of the director’s favorite surrogates.

Saturday, April 13 at 6:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium

Shadow of a Doubt (1943)
Arriving in Santa Rosa for a visit with his family, Joseph Cotten is on the run from investigators who want to question him about some recent arrivals at the morgue. His family welcomes him with open arms, especially his adoring young niece Teresa Wright. The girl gradually begins to suspect that her beloved uncle may not be who he seems to be. With a screenplay by Thornton Wilder, this is Hitchcock’s personal favorite.

Saturday, May 11 at 6:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium

Spellbound (1945)
Ingrid Bergman is a psychiatrist at an asylum run by Leo G. Carroll who is about to retire. His replacement, Gregory Peck, arrives but behaves more like an inmate than a doctor. Bergman falls in love with him anyway as she tries to get to the bottom of his strange behavior. Surrealist Salvador Dali designed Peck’s outlandish dream sequence for Hitchcock and Miklos Rozsa wrote the Oscar-winning score.

Saturday, June 8 at 6:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium

Rope (1948)
Farley Granger and John Dall kill a prep-school pal just for the thrill of it, then throw a party in the apartment where the body is hidden. Guests include the victim’s parents and fiancée as well as their former college professor and mentor, James Stewart. Inspired by the real-life Leopold-Loeb murders, the story is presented in real time and appears to be shot without any cuts. Since film reels were only ten minutes long back then, how did the master pull that off? This was Hitchcock’s first film in color.

FIVE STAR FILMS

Barbara Steffek-Hill loves to share favorite films from the silent era to today in genres ranging from dance to drama, comedy, suspense and more. Her wide-ranging tastes and eclectic selections connect the history of cinema in ways that make us rethink each individual film. Read her notes below.

Chicago (2002)
Directed by Rob Marshall
Rated PG-13
Ranking cell block diva Catherine Zeta-Jones has been upstaged by newcomer Renee Zellweger. When she goes to trial, slick defense lawyer Richard Gere performs his best courtroom tap dance for the jury. But corrupt prison warden Queen Latifah has a trick up her sleeve that could tip the scales. Who ever thought that murder and musical numbers would mix?
Saturday, March 16 at 6:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium

The Postman Always Rings Twice (1947)
Directed by Tay Garnett
Not Rated
John Garfield is hired to be the new handyman at Cecil Kellaway's roadside diner. His young, gorgeous wife Lana Turner acts cool to her husband's choice—at first. Before long, disdain turns to smoldering mutual attraction. Keeping their affair a secret becomes untenable. The conspirators devise a risky plan to eliminate the only obstacle that threatens their future together.
Saturday, April 20 at 6:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium

Far From the Madding Crowd (1967)
Directed by John Schlesinger
Rated PG
In 1800's Wessex, the beautiful but capricious Julie Christie inherits a farm and runs it with the help of rejected suitor Alan Bates, a shepherd. In need of adoration, she flirts with older gentleman farmer Peter Finch but falls for handsome, reckless army sergeant Terence Stamp whom she marries. The perfect storm of love, betrayal and jealousy has been set in motion.
Saturday, May 18 at 6:00 p.m. in the Main Library Auditorium

Elmer Gantry (1960)
Directed by Richard Brooks
Rated PG
It's the 1920s, and Burt Lancaster is a fast talking, hip flask kind of guy with a string of female conquests in his wake. At tent meetings, evangelist Jean Simmons preaches salvation. The con man and true believer hook up, attracting even larger crowds. Spoiling for revenge, old flame turned fallen woman Shirley Jones threatens to go public and bring down their partnership.

Witness for the Prosecution (1957)
Directed by Billy Wilder
Not Rated
Despite a recent heart attack, cigar smoking, hard drinking barrister Charles Laughton accepts a murder case. The defendant is an unemployed American, Tyrone Power, down on his luck and married to East German beer hall performer Marlene Dietrich. Although there were no eyewitnesses, the prosecution thinks it has a strong enough case to convict.

Dead Men Don’t Wear Plaid (1982)
Directed by Carl Reiner
Rated PG
Rachel Ward believes that her famed cheese scientist father was murdered while working on a new recipe. She persuades private eye Steve Martin to investigate. He stumbles upon a piece of paper listing “The Friends and Enemies of Carlotta.” Clips from classic noir films starring some of Hollywood’s most famous actors have been seamlessly woven into the story.

Beyond our borders and outside the mainstream movie world, there are daring, original and often controversial films that we don’t often get to see. You might have missed them before, so the Library is bringing the art house closer to home. Visit www.lakewoodpubliclibrary.org/film for more great films.

The Science of Sleep (2006)
Directed by Michel Gondry  Rated R
In a patchwork paper town made of cardboard and string, Stephane and the girl next door ride a magical stuffed horse and fall in love. But dreams can be deceiving. This constantly inventive, romantic fantasy of imagination versus logic will break your heart in all the right places.

Two Hands (1999)
Directed by Gregor Jordan  Rated R
A brother’s ghost guides Heath Ledger’s mad, romantic search and, together, they won’t be deterred by the gangsters who want them both dead. Before Brokeback Mountain, this small, sweet film blazed with Ledger’s emerging talent and his unmistakable chemistry with Rose Byrne—all set against the backdrop of an endless, sun-drenched Australian paradise.

Cinema Paradiso (1988)
Directed by Giuseppe Tornatore  Rated R
A young boy growing up near the only movie theater in the village befriends the projectionist and the seed is planted. He loves the cinema with a passion that shapes the rest of his life. But how does the love of the silver screen stack up against young love over the course of decades? The director’s cut, presented here, is the fully-realized epic originally intended by the filmmaker.

Directed by François Ozon  Rated NC-17
Julie is beautiful, wild and an uninvited guest at her father’s country retreat. Sarah Morton, who has rented the place, needs a perfect, tightly wound routine in order to construct the cold and calculated world of her bestselling novels. What a pair they make when real-life death comes knocking.

Power of One (1992)
Directed by John G. Avildsen  Rated PG-13
Even before Apartheid, South Africa was a difficult place to find justice. When a young white man whose family spoke up finds himself orphaned and imprisoned, there seems little hope for him or his country. But with the help of some wise men, including Morgan Freeman, Stephen Dorff fights the system with nothing more than his fists. Make no mistake, this film is about more than boxing.

The Runaways (2010)
Directed by Floria Sigismondi  Rated R
Making a rock biopic isn’t easy, especially since no one back in the 80s seemed to take this California all-girl punk band seriously. But Joan Jett didn’t care and her sneer eventually propelled her to legendary rock star status. Kristen Stewart surprises as the raven-haired rocker in her early years, just trying to survive with her partner-in-crime, Dakota Fanning.

DOCUMENTARY FILM

Anatomy of a Film (2012) Directed by David Spodak
Kubrick is arguably the greatest film director of all time. But what made him so good? Anatomy of a Film attacks the question, taking his early triumph, the controversial World War I drama Paths of Glory, and dissecting it scene by scene—quite literally. The entire film is shown from beginning to end as the filmmakers present a master class on Kubrick’s technique with additional commentary from Kirk Douglas, producer Jim Harris and actor Richard Anderson. This unforgettable evening, presented by the filmmakers, is cheaper than film school by at least a hundred thousand dollars.

My Perestroika (2010) Directed by Robin Hessman
They were the last generation to grow up behind the Iron Curtain. Five young adults struggle to find their place in a new Russia that is vastly different from the one that was promised to them as children. This intimate portrait finds great laughs and great sorrow in the contradiction of being young and free when you can’t quite escape the old regime.

The City Dark (2011) Directed by Ian Cheney
Every traveling city dweller knows that feeling—when you first hit country and the sky fills with a countless number of visible stars. After moving to New York City from rural Maine, the filmmaker asked a simple question, “Do we need the stars?” From Brooklyn to Mauna Kea, to Paris, killer asteroids, hatching turtles and injured birds in the city streets, serve to unravel the implications of a globe glittering with lights.

Ohio Chautauqua 2013:
When Ohio Was the Western Frontier

The Ohio Humanities Council is proud to announce the return of Ohio Chautauqua to Lakewood for a weeklong celebration of Ohio’s frontier days. Coinciding with the 200th anniversary of the Battle of Lake Erie, this family friendly look back is hosted by the Lakewood Historical Society in partnership with Lakewood Public Library, Beck Center for the Arts, Lakewood City Schools and Lakewood Chamber of Commerce.

Over five days, five key historical figures will be brought to life by master scholar actors. Each day begins with a children’s presentation at The Beck Center. In the afternoon, the Library hosts a workshop led by one of the actors. Participants will have the opportunity to ask questions about the actor’s historical figure, Ohio frontier history and the research that went into bringing each character to life. Finally, as each day draws to a close, the celebration moves to Lakewood Park with a musical concert followed by a dramatic presentation.

All events are free and open to the public. Visit www.lakewoodhistory.org to learn more.

The Church of St. James: Architectural History of a Distinctive Landmark

The reopening of the Church of St. James the Greater was a pivotal moment in our region’s cultural heritage. This presentation by church historian Tim Barrett covers the architectural history and highlights the many challenges that accompanied the completion of this monumental edifice. Compare St. James, in all its glory, to illustrations of the medieval European cathedrals that served as the inspiration for its design and lavish detailing.

Edgewater: The Industrial Park That Could Have Been

The land where Edgewater Park sits today was coveted by industry in the late 1800s because of its easy access to both water and rail. Fortunately, the City Beautiful movement that swept the nation after the Chicago Columbian Exposition of 1893 inspired our civic leaders to make more attractive use of the land. Eric Deutsch of the Friends of Edgewater State Park tells the whole colorful story with plenty of pictures and maps that give us a new appreciation of our precious public access.

The Battle of Lake Erie: Birth of a Nation and a City

John D. Cimperman, President of the Early Settlers Association of the Western Reserve, commemorates the Battle of Lake Erie, a key turning-point in American History that took place just 60 miles from here. After the United States won its independence, it found itself in a dangerous world without the protection of the Royal Navy. Between 1783 and the conclusion of the War of 1812, American shipping became prey to privateers around the world and close to home. Cimperman recounts our nation’s struggle for survival up until the lasting peace that was struck between the United States, Canada and England in 1815.

Civil War 150 Opening Reception with Women in History

Women played a crucial role in the Civil War, taking over farms and businesses, serving as nurses for the wounded and even becoming spies for both sides. Elizabeth Van Lew, a prominent member of Richmond society and Mary Elizabeth Bowser, a freed slave working in the Confederate White House, passed Confederate secrets to the Union. Ruth Pangrace and Vernice Jackson star in this dramatic presentation.

CIVIL WAR 150

Civil War 150 is a national traveling panel exhibition organized by the Gilder Lehrman Institute of American History in partnership with The Library of America. The project, Civil War 150: Exploring the War and Its Meaning through the Words of Those Who Lived It, has been made possible in part through a major grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities: Exploring the human endeavor. The War Between the States was the most transformative period in U.S. history. Drawing upon letters, personal accounts, and images, Civil War 150 invites Americans to understand how soldiers, presidents, freedmen and families struggled to address the nature of democracy and citizenship, the human toll of Civil War and the role of a president in wartime.

Dear Lakewood,

For nearly a hundred years, Lakewood residents have enhanced their lives through the many educational and cultural benefits provided by Lakewood Public Library. To ensure that the community retains robust access to these benefits—even as the nature of its resources continue to change and grow—the Lakewood Public Library Foundation was formed in 1994. The Foundation’s mission is to help the Library acquire the long-term financial stability it needs to maintain and continue to increase its reputation for excellence in community service.

While other libraries across the nation reduce hours, shutter branches and lower ambitions, the Lakewood Public Library has held strong and continued to move forward. Its success is, in no small part, thanks to the support of the Foundation. The endowment fund established in 2001 helps to ensure that the Library can weather almost any financial storm and still retain its inventive and independent spirit—but shrewd investment is only the beginning.

Since its inception, some of the resources funded by the Foundation have been a technology center for the Madison Branch, free Princeton Review ACT test preparation courses to the city’s hungriest high school minds, and of course, the public art contributions that adorn the renovated Main Library. The Foundation has cemented the Library’s place in Lakewood culture by seeding the imagination of visitors and creating an atmosphere of inspired learning.

As we look to the future, the Library’s ability to continue to provide life-long learning opportunities to everyone in the community through innovative technology, books, magazines, videos, DVDs, Internet access and children’s, family and adult programming will depend on its ability to fund its ambitions despite the loss of support from government funding.

The Foundation has raised funds through author events, galas and an annual fundraising drive. Additionally, the Library has been the recipient of bequests from several estates including the Edwards, LeDuke and Shoemaker families and has received endowments from the Fisher and Cole families. If you have enjoyed the benefits of the Lakewood Public Library, please consider the Foundation in your estate planning or consider a gift to the Lakewood Public Library Foundation by completing the form below. All gifts are welcome regardless of size and are accepted at any time during the year.

We believe that our nationally recognized Library is the jewel of our community. As we work together to maintain its reputation for excellence, we thank you for your continued support.

Dear Friends and Patrons,

The Friends of Lakewood Public Library is an organization that recycles books and other materials donated by you to raise money to support the Library. In addition to our traditional book sales at Main Library, we also sell rare volumes to collectors online. Profits go to support Library programming like free concerts, lectures, films and special activities for children.

We thank you for your donations of books, videotapes, CDs and DVDs. Not only do they generate funds for a good cause, they bring great joy to our customers. If you would like to play a greater role in your Library, please consider joining us. Volunteers work in the book sale room on Monday and Friday afternoons and we can always use help at the sales. Contact us through the website or leave a message at the Circulation Desk. We would also be glad to receive a letter!

Thank you for your support,

LakewoodAlive Front Porch Concert Series

Every Friday in July and August at 7:00 p.m. in Front of the Main Library

LakewoodAlive, in collaboration with Lakewood Public Library and Vance Music Studios, is proud to announce the 4th Annual Front Porch Concert Series. The series utilizes music to build community spirit and awareness through concerts performed in the historic, downtown district on Friday evenings during the summer. The concerts, held on Lakewood Public Library’s Front Porch, are free and open to the public. Concert-goers can bring lawn chairs and enjoy fantastic music with friends and neighbors in the heart of Downtown Lakewood. The Front Porch Concert Series is supported in part by the residents of Cuyahoga County through a public grant from Cuyahoga Arts & Culture and receives continued support from the Friends of Lakewood Public Library.

Who is LakewoodAlive?

LakewoodAlive is a non-profit organization whose mission is to strengthen Lakewood’s economy. The primary focus is the continued revitalization of Downtown Lakewood’s commercial district by putting on events, improving the esthetic appeal of the district, organizing the merchant association and working to recruit, retain and grow businesses. LakewoodAlive hosts events that strengthen the quality of life for residents and visitors including the Lakewood Summer Meltdown, Spooky Pooch Parade and Light Up Lakewood. LakewoodAlive also partners with non-profit organizations, civic entities and businesses city-wide to support continued growth and event promotion.

LakewoodAlive’s Housing Outreach program connects low-to-moderate-income residents with resources and educational services, including facilitation of volunteer labor to complete home repairs, administration of a paint rebate program, collaboration with non-profits and businesses and leverages limited resources.

With a three member staff and more than three-hundred volunteers, LakewoodAlive coordinates these programs for the community while also developing forums that bring residents together to discuss important community topics throughout the year. For more information, visit www.lakewoodalive.com.

Meet the Author
Surviving the Applewhites and More
by Stephanie S. Tolan
The Lakewood Public Library Foundation and the Friends of Lakewood Public Library present an evening with the author of two books about growing up in an imaginative, home-school family and struggling with the outside world. Surviving the Applewhites was named a Newbery Honor book in 2003 and Applewhites at Wit’s End has been equally well-received. Tolan was born in Ohio and raised in Wisconsin and wrote her first story in the fourth grade when she discovered that she could make her own magic as a writer. She looks forward to sharing her adventures with other young writers. Books will be available for sale and signing at the event.
